TROOPS SHOOT DOWN PENNSYLVANIA MINERS

First Beat Back Missile-Throwing Foreigners With "Black Jacks," but When Attack Is Renewed, Fire and Wound Several—Two Houses Are Riddled With Bullets.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., April 30.—Two serious clashes between Lieut. Smith's command of constabulary and foreign miners occurred here today. The troopers fired on their assailants, fatally injuring one man and wounding several others.

The troopers had been guarding the Sayre colliery in the suburbs. Their first trouble came when the waitresses of three local hotels refused to serve them with food. They returned to the streets only to be attacked by a mob of foreign miners. These were beaten back with "black jacks" and persuaded by one of their number, also the chief officer of the town, to return to their homes.

For a moment a crisis was averted, as the miners were preparing for a second attack and the soldiers were drawn up in line prepared to shoot. The troopers started to return to the colliery, but in front of the residence of Dr. Keefer on Hickory street they were again attacked, their assailants throwing stones.

Lieut. Smith ordered the mob to disperse, but this merely resulted in the throwing of more missiles. Thereupon the troops were ordered to fire. As the carbines began to crack the miners fell back in disorder, leaving a man named Wilson fatally wounded and a number of others hurt in the street. Dr. Keefer's house was riddled with bullets.

The constabulary then retired the remaining distance to the Sayre Colliery, where Lieut. Smith reported the trouble to Pottsville. He was ordered to hold his ground pending the arrival of reinforcements, but later he was told to bring his command back to Pottsville. He was placed under $500 bonds, charged with assault with intent to kill. Three of the miners were also held.

The home of Sol Goldsmith also was riddled with bullets, and Mrs. Goldsmith was wounded. A larger force of constabulary is expected to return soon.

FIRE IN KITCHEN OF RESTAURANT

Small Blaze in Basement of Skyscraper Causes Much Excitement.

A still alarm of fire from Eighth and Olive streets about 12:15 Monday sent the fire department in hot haste to the Chemical Building, drew a big crowd on that busy corner and for a few moments caused considerable excitement among the guests of Lippe's Restaurant in the basement during the crowded noon hour.

The fire was in Lippe's, having started from the range in the kitchen and was served to increase the momentary excitement.

Diners in the restaurant were alarmed for a time, but, almost coincident with the arrival of the engines, the fire was extinguished with but little damage.

The occupants of the 14 floors of the Chemical Building were frightened when they saw the fire department gallop up to the front of the building, and many made preparations for flight. Before the fright had time to develop into anything like a panic, however, the fire was out and tranquility restored.

SQUATTER OUSTED FROM CITY LOT

Tenant of Valuable Olive Street Tract Must Pay Back Rent.

Possession of a disputed tract of land on the south side of Olive street, 50 feet west of Grand avenue, was awarded in the United States Circuit Court Monday to S. Edwin Megargee and the Pennsylvania Insurance Co. Roy A. Millot, proprietor of a carpenter shop on the site, who was sued with Peter McNally, was ordered to pay $1 damages for unlawful detention, and $150 back rent, and to yield possession.

Millot based his claim on 10 years' tenancy. The plaintiffs cited deeds dating back to 1812. The lot is 61x120, and was valued at $175,000.

Pitched From Auto, Hurt.

Thomas W. Carter of 5 Portland place was hurled from his automobile Saturday night at Boyle avenue and Lindell boulevard, but escaped without serious injury. The car was damaged $1000. The street-car tracks at that point are being repaired, and are 10 inches above ground. Mr. Carter said the signal lamps were so placed as to confuse him. He drove the car against the tracks, and pitched forward headlong.

PLAN FOR GREATER CITY

Fire Has Removed Obstacles to Extensive Landscape Alterations.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Two slight earthquake shocks at an interval of an hour were felt here early this morning. They were of the same nature as a dozen other shocks that have been felt since the big quake of April 18.

No damage was done this morning and there was no alarm.

Glorious sunshine and three band concerts in the camps—two in Golden Gate Park and one in the Presidio—chased away the blues and made thousands happy yesterday. Children danced in the grass, fathers smoked and smiled at their antics; mothers who had sacrificed everything to save the spring hat put it on and looked cheerful.

Those who have clothing dressed in their best and when the California First Regiment band played "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie" the great throng applauded vigorously. There was plenty of food and an extra allowance of perishable stuff in the makeshift shelters in which the people have suffered for ten days.

Cupid, too, refuses to take a vacation. Ten marriages were performed yesterday and several occurred every day last week in the camps. One couple had nothing but the clothes they wore, but said they were supremely happy.

There has been a depletion in the ranks of the trained nurses, who appear to be unusually susceptible to matrimony. The philosophy of the bridegrooms may have been voiced by one who, when asked by Gen. Funston why he was rushing into marriage, replied: "Well, I can't be any worse off than I am."

Every precaution is made to guard against typhoid. A general order to boil water is being sent all over the

KERENS CAN'T PROVE CHARGES, OPPONENTS SAY

McCoy and Howe Declare His Reflections on Niedringhaus Ridiculous.

ATTACKED NIEDRINGHAUS

Financial Management of State Campaign Subject of Insinuations.

REPLY TO RESOLUTIONS

Down and Out, and Will Never Influence Party Again, Leaders Declare.

Republican leaders friendly to State Chairman Thomas K. Niedringhaus spoke indignantly Monday of the published charges of Richard C. Kerens, with reference to the manner in which Mr. Niedringhaus handled contributions to the State campaign fund of 1904.

In an interview at Chicago Kerens undertook to answer the resolution denouncing him, adopted at the convention of the Missouri State League of Republican Clubs. The resolution condemned him for continuing to be a candidate for the Missouri Senatorship after Niedringhaus had received the indorsement of the caucus. He declared in reply that his followers in the bolt were actuated by revelations concerning the brewers' subscription of $21,000 and "other matters," which have not yet come to light.

Secretary McCoy of the State Committee declares that Kerens may be required to prove some of the charges he has made against Niedringhaus.

"I had nothing to do with the financial end of the campaign, but I know that it was directed with intelligence and integrity," said Mr. McCoy to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Calls Kerens' Talk Wild.

"Kerens has lost his caution and is making statements that we consider simply ridiculous.

"Probably he is sore because he paid the rent for Exposition Music Hall, where the State League adopted resolutions condemning him. It would make almost any man mad to have such a thing happen.

"But it wasn't our convention. Sim Harris, a Kerens man, tried to boss it, and everybody knows the result."

Among other things Kerens said:

"It is not fair to charge me with the defeat of Niedringhaus. I am sorry they had to have a fight in the league meeting. As near as I can learn the delegates present were there to pass that resolution condemning me.

"Niedringhaus's own record defeated him. His violation of the corrupt practices act lost him the election.

Quote Senate Committee.

"Now, Niedringhaus had a peculiar way of handling campaign funds. He was chairman of the committee and his own treasurer as well. He didn't keep many books. He made an affidavit that he personally contributed $20,000 and $30,000 to the campaign fund, whereas he didn't do anything of the kind. This money came from the brewers.

"It is true that Neidringhaus received the caucus nomination for United States Senator. But in the two weeks and more that intervened before the vote was taken, wrongdoings on his part developed.

"A Senate committee, composed of Republicans and Democrats, was named to investigate Niedringhaus. That committee made an investigation and unanimously reported its conclusions. That report was the cause of his defeat.

"Any number of credible witnesses were found who disclosed his methods of handling committee funds. These conclusions were signed by the Senate committee.

"It need hardly be remarked that the last day of the convention's attendance was mostly from the wards of St. Louis, organized in advance, and were not accredited delegates and were factional and not representative."

Kerens Down and Out.

Jeptha D. Howe, chairman of the Republican City Central Committee, said that Kerens would have no further voice in Republican politics in Missouri.

"It is one thing to make an accusation, another to prove it," said Mr. Howe.

"Kerens can talk, but the man with the last say has the advantage. Perhaps he has said more at Chicago than he intended to say.

"Mr. Niedringhaus administered the financial affairs of the State Committee with credit to himself and to his party."

Mr. Niedringhaus was out of the city Monday. At his office it was stated that he would probably not return for three or four days.

LURED BY PARADE.

Three Lost Children Followed and One Reported.

Within an hour after the passing of the circus parade Monday the Central District police found three lost children and received a request from anxious parents for a fourth.

A little girl of 8 years, believed to be of Greek parentage, was found weeping at Eighth and Gratiot streets. She wore a black cape and a black and white dress, and had brown hair and blue eyes.

A boy of 5, with light hair and complexion, was found on Broadway. He and the little girl, too frightened to tell their names, were taken to the Four Courts. There they found Jack Mulhally, aged 8, who told the police he lived near Montrose and Adams streets, and had followed 24 ponies all the way to Broadway. He was not greatly frightened, but wanted to get home.

The parents of Clarence Lorend, aged 5, of 1543 Papin street, telephoned to the police that he had also followed the 24 ponies and had failed to come back.

PARIS LEADERS FOR LABOR DAY PLOT ARRESTED

Police Take in Custody Over a Score of Alleged Conspirators.

MAY DAY MANAGERS OUT

Those in Charge of Proposed Celebration May 1 Announce Their Withdrawal.

PARIS, April 30.—The police today arrested M. Griffuelhes, secretary of the General Confederation of Labor, the responsible organizer of the proposed May day demonstration; M. Bibert, a newspaper man, and Major Feuillant, a Bonapartist, formerly of the Imperial Guards. In addition, Count Durand de Beauregard was taken into custody at Nice. Arrests were also made at other places and warrants were issued for the arrest of M. Levy, secretary of the Confederation of Labor, and M. Fromentin, a wealthy anarchist, both of whom were found to have fled from this city.

All the prisoners are charged with complicity in organizing a rebellion and with intriguing with anarchists. The arrests began early in the morning, the charges being based on papers seized during the recent police searches. Judge Andre summoned the police commissioners of the central districts of Paris and directed each of them to proceed with a squad of police and make the arrests in various sections of the city. At the same time telegraph orders were to proceed with arrests at Nice, Brest and other points.

M. Griffuelhes, who is the principal labor leader, was found at his house and was taken into custody, but his associate, Levy, was not located.

Henri Ribert is editor of L'Autorite, a Bonapartist organ.

Two additional warrants have been issued, but the names of the persons arrested are to be withheld until they are in the hands of the police.

Griffuelhes, Bibert and Feuillant after their preliminary examination were taken to jail.

Labor Officials Stunned.

The officials at the labor headquarters here are stunned at the arrests, especially as the managers of tomorrow's proposed demonstration have withdrawn from further activity, which is causing general discouragement in labor circles.

The police declare that the arrests will break the backbone of the violent element.

The strike centers outside of Paris are calm.

M. Lepine, the prefect of police, conferred during the day with the commanders of the troops and gave final instructions for the military occupation of the main points in Paris, beginning early Tuesday.

Each soldier will receive two packages of cartridges and two days' rations.

AMERICANS WIN IN ATHENS FINALS

ATHENS, April 30.—In the final 400-meter race, Paul Pilgrim, N. Y. A. C., won; time, 53 1-5s; Lieut. W. Halwelle, England, second, time 53 4-5s; Nigel Barker, Australia, third.

In the final of the 1500-meter race today, J. D. Lightbody, Chicago University, was first; McGough, England, second, and Hellstrom, Sweden, third. Time, 4m. 12c. Lightbody won by two yards.

EX-POLICEMAN IN JAIL.

Coleman Begins His Sentence for Beating Man.

Former Patrolman William J. Coleman, convicted last week in Judge Reynolds' court on the charge of common assault, and fined $100 and sentenced to serve a year in the Workhouse, was sent to Jail Monday and will begin his sentence Tuesday.

Coleman appeared in court Monday and by his attorney withdrew his motion for a new trial and announced he was ready to begin his sentence.

Coleman was a policeman in the Dayton Street District. He was charged with felonious assault on William Altheer, a showman, who was giving performances at Jefferson avenue and Dodier street. Altheer refused to pass some friends of the policeman into his show and it is alleged that the policeman attacked the showman. Coleman was tried by the Police Board and was dismissed from the force. He was later indicted.

Patrolman Dineen of the North Market Street District, who testified in Coleman's behalf, was charged with perjury, as was also Coleman. Dineen was tried on the perjury charge, but the jury could not agree. Dineen was also dismissed from the force.

MRS. McGILL DIVORCED.

Judge Taylor granted a divorce Monday to Mrs. Ida McGill from Henry E. McGill after having had the case under advisement for 10 days. Mrs. McGill gets the custody of their 4-year-old daughter and $20 a month alimony.

In her petition Mrs. McGill accused her husband of having a bad temper and of swearing at her and their child. McGill, in his defense, denied that he swore at his wife, though he admitted that he turned profanity loose promiscuously at times.

MOTHER'S TALK WINS HER DIVORCE

Mrs. Vogelsang Got Decree After Parent Told of Mistreatment.

Mrs. Lucile Miller Vogelsang testified Monday in suing for divorce that when Robert Vogelsang mistreated her or failed to support her, "mother came to the front."

When the evidence was concluded Judge Foster said the suit showed "a mild attack," and that there wasn't evidence to warrant divorce. Whereupon, Mrs. Vogelsang's attorney recalled her mother to the stand. Mrs. Miller "came to the front" and related with dramatic emphasis some incidents she hadn't told before. And Judge Foster granted the decree.

Mrs. Vogelsang, 22 years old, and pretty, turned constantly to her mother as she was testifying. At one point, when she was saying her husband never "took her out," Judge Foster interrupted.

Some Women Don't Know.

"Some women don't know how to manage a husband," he observed. "Who was the head of the house?"

Mrs. Vogelsang sidestepped.

"A husband ought to take his wife out," she said.

"How often?" asked Judge Foster.

"Occasionally."

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Vogelsang both said Vogelsang never bought her clothes and wouldn't pay the rent, and that Mrs. Miller was constantly "coming to the front." The evidence that turned the tide after the battle had apparently been lost, given by Mrs. Miller, was that he locked his wife in the room, and that Mrs. Miller had to burst the door in to rescue her.

Mrs. Vogelsang was given the custody of her baby boy. The couple was married in 1903 and separated the day after Christmas, 1905, because, Mrs. Vogelsang said, her husband came home drunk Christmas night.

WARMER AFTER THUNDERSTORMS

Rain Fell Ahead of Schedule on Circus Parade.

The Weather Bureau, defying tradition, said the rain wouldn't come until Monday night. Any small boy could have told that it would rain on the circus parade. It did. Big drops began falling while downtown streets were being traversed.

The forecast: Showers and probable thunderstorms Monday night and Tuesday; warmer; southerly winds.

In the last hours there have been general rains all over the West as far as the Pacific Coast and snows in Wyoming and Northern Arizona.

Temperatures are generally higher in the South in the central valleys and in the East and lower in the Rocky Mountain and Lake regions.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS DRIVE PRETTY BRIDE TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Mrs. Mary Brennan Worried About Insinuations Against Her and by Threat of Man to Call at Her Home and Denounce Her to Her Husband.

WRITER ORDERED HER TO DESERT HER HUSBAND

Telegram Asked Her to Call Sender Up by Telephone—Husband Answered and Told Man to Cease His Annoyance—Then Threat to Call Was Made.

Harassed by shocking anonymous letters which reached her and her husband almost daily during the entire seven months of her married life and finally driven frantic by the telephoned threat of the writer to call at her home and denounce her in the presence of her husband, Mrs. Mary Brennan drank carbolic acid and ended her life.

She was buried Monday in Mount Hope Cemetery in her wedding dress, the funeral starting from her home at 503 North Fortieth street, East St. Louis. The writer of the anonymous letters did not execute his threat to visit the Brennan home Sunday.

He is known to the young woman's husband, Stephen Brennan, only by the name of "Smith," and is said to have been a suitor for the girl's hand before she became Brennan's wife last September.

Only a few days after the wedding Brennan received an anonymous letter. In veiled and insinuating language it darkly hinted that there was something which Brennan ought to know. There were no secrets between the young couple. Brennan showed the letter to his wife. She was indignant and greatly worried, and she told her husband that the handwriting was that of Smith.

The husband sought to reassure her, but the incident made a painful impression on her. Other letters were received. The burden of them all was the same, and the writer was always nameless.

Letters to Husband and Wife.

At first the letters were all addressed to the husband, but in the last few weeks several of them were written to Mrs. Brennan demanding that she leave her husband and run away with the writer. All of these letters were shown to Brennan, who attempted to laugh away the fears of his wife.

He made a constant effort to find the mysterious letter writer, but was unable to do so. Attempts to trace him by the postmarks on the letters were unavailing.

Slowly the nervous strain caused by this constant underhand persecution told on the health of the pretty young wife. Her cheeks grew pale and the lustre in her dark eyes was unnaturally bright. She was in a state of tense excitement all the time, and she started at every unusual sound.

The husband, powerless to protect her, tried his best to comfort her. She became more and more deeply affected as letter after letter came to worry her. Last Friday she received a telegram, which read:

"Call me on the phone at Collinsville." It bore the signature "S." She ignored this message. That night as she and her husband were at the supper table a second telegram came.

"Call me up at Edwardsville right away," it said.

Taking his hat and coat, Brennan said to his wife:

"Come with me. We'll discover that message."

Arm in arm, Brennan and his wife went to a drug store. There Brennan got the mysterious message from the Edwardsville wire.

"Let me talk to him," said Brennan.

The indignant husband [illegible] the man at the other end of the line a sharp rebuke, telling him to cease his letters. Brennan alone and to stop [illegible]

"Well," came back [illegible] of the insinuator. "I will [illegible] at your home Sunday and will [illegible] you something which you ought to know."

He hung the receiver [illegible] hook and the conversation was [illegible] end.

On the way back [illegible] house the husband told his [illegible] at the man had said.

Saturday Mrs. Brennan moved around the house like one [illegible] am. Though she may not have feared anything which the visitor might have to say, she felt that there would be an encounter at the meeting Sunday, and the prospect of it made her so nervous that she was half crazed when her husband returned from work at noon.

Drank Poison After Her Home.

Brennan laughed and joked with her and after dinner he said:

"You just want to get out in the open air. Come, we'll go down to the creek and see if we can't catch some fish."

Mrs. Brennan packed their lunch and they walked out together into the country. They returned from their fishing trip after dark. While Brennan was putting away his tackle his wife stepped into the bedroom. A few minutes later he heard her groaning and when he ran to her he found her lying on the bed. A small bottle was beside her and the odor of carbolic acid was in the air.

When physicians reached the home she was unconscious. She lay white and still all night and died on the morning of the day when the man was to come to tell her husband "something."

HAZERS SOAK HIS HEAD IN IODIN

Then Wisconsin University Humorists Throw Victim Into a Lake.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—Joseph Pfiffner of Stevens Point, a Freshman student in the College of Letters and Science of the State University, was through the worst hazing experience Saturday night any Freshman has had here for a long time. His hair was soaked in a society lodge porch and his head was smeared with iodine. Then he was thrown into the lake.

Freshmen themselves did the work, claiming that Pfiffner had "made some remarkable university society break they did not like. It was only after a hard fight that the Freshmen could get the boy. He was drilling in the gymnasium, and the crowd gathered to wait for him to leave. The man in charge of the building telephoned for a police man. The latter threatened to arrest the first man who attacked Pfiffner, but escorted him to his fraternity lodge.

After the policeman left, the crowd gathered again and threatened to break into the house after the boy, but finally decided to brave the ordeal.

MOUNT HECLA TOUCANO IS IN ERUPTION

Steamers Report Iceland's Volcano Scattering Its Ashes Over Wide Area.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, April [illegible] Steamers which arrived at Leith today from Iceland report that Mount Hecla has been in eruption.

Ashes were scattered over a large area. The disturbance, however, is not serious.

Hecla is on the southwest coast of Iceland. It is surrounded by many other mountains. It has three peaks, elevated above its body and along sides are numerous craters, the result of former eruptions. The crater of its principal peak does not exceed 100 feet in depth. The mountain is composed chiefly of lava and basalt, but slag, sand and loose ashes cover a great part of its surface.

Since 900 A. D. 43 of its eruptions are on record, of which five have been simultaneous, or nearly so, with those of Vesuvius, four with those of Mount Aetna and one with those of both.

CASHIER OF LOOTED CHICAGO BANK HELD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Gustav Sorrow of Chicago was arrested at the Hotel Marseilles, 103d street and Broadway, last night. He had been indicted in Chicago for helping to rob the Bank of America, which began business on Dec. 4 last and went into a receiver's hands on Feb. 15.

Sorrow was the bank's cashier. Three other officials have been indicted with him. It is charged against them that looting began before the bank opened its doors.

Supt. O'Connor of the Chicago police wired Inspector McLaughlin [illegible] Friday asking him to arrest Sorrow on the charge of "conspiring to do an illegal act." Griffin and Darcy found him at the Hotel Marseilles. They took him when he returned late last night.

Sorrow was taken to police headquarters.

...RIED VIEWS ...N GOV. FOLK'S ...ELECTION BILL

...mocrats Express Dislike of Ban Upon Assistance in Preparing Ballots.

SCHNURMACHER INDORSES

Republican Election Commissioner Says Many Features of Plan Are Good.

...nterviews were obtained by Post-Dispatch reporters Monday with prominent Democrats and Republicans relative to Gov. Folk's plan to be submitted to the next Legislature for the enactment of a new election law providing absolute home rule in elections, requiring an educational qualification and registration of voters in the country, as well as in the cities.

Briefly, Gov. Folk, as printed in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, proposes to abolish the present Election Board system in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, now under the control of the Governor, and substitute for them three supervisors of elections in each city, chosen by the municipal assemblies for four-year terms, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party.

In each county of the State, under Gov. Folk's plan, there will be a board of supervisors to consist of the County Clerk and two members chosen by the County Court.

Following are opinions regarding the Governor's plan:

Forman Scores Folk.

H. A. FORMAN, Republican, president of the City Council and president of the Fourth National Bank:

In a general way my opinion is that Gov. Folk is not sincere about the home rule measure. Had he been would have had a special session when the branches of the St. Louis Municipal Assembly sent a committee to Jefferson City and asked the Governor for such action.

The Governor knew then the Legislature was in favor of a home rule law. I think he is insincere because otherwise why should he want to leave the matter for the next Legislature, the attitude of which on home rule cannot be foretold. I am in favor of home rule, although Jefferson Club, Democrat: I must say that I am opposed to any law that will disfranchise voters who are unable to vote without assistance. I understand the proposed law makes assistance unlawful—infamous.

I am opposed to an election commission chosen by the Municipal Assembly. I think the acts of any election commission should be reviewable by the Circuit Court, and I rather incline to the appointment of election commissioners by the Circuit Court.

I am in favor of registration in cities and counties of 25,000 or over, but not in counties or small cities, because I have never had evidence that the present system in the counties and country districts is not both efficient and honest.

Ban on Assistance Good.

BENJAMIN SCHNURMACHER, Republican member Board of Election Commissioners: The rule against assistance to a voter is a good one. If a man is unable to read he is not sufficiently informed to cast an intelligent ballot. I am aware that this is not a popular view, and I would not feel like expressing it if I were running for office. But whether an illiterate man can cast an intelligent vote or not, it is very likely that the vote he casts represents the preference of the man who helps him prepare it, rather than that of the voter.

The plan for supervisors of election, to be chosen by the Municipal Assembly, is a good one in theory—practically I do not know how it would work out.

I do not understand the provision that the supervisors' judgment shall be final. The plan for central office registration with the books always open. I think anything of the latter sort would be a mistake, as the central office clerks would be unable to know whether applicants have a right to register from the wards named.

That certificates of registration should be issued to and required from voters seems to me an excellent plan. I would supplement it with the suggestion that each person be photographed on the card. This is done on souvenir postal cards. It would be preferable to pasting a photograph on the card, as a pasted photograph might be removed and affixed on another card.

WILLIAM B. KINEALY, Democratic Collector, Thirty-fourth District: I do not like the clause prohibiting assistance to a voter. The ballot proposed is a complicated one, and in many cases intelligent voters need assistance, or at least suggestions, in preparing ballots.

I would also favor a court review of the acts of a body as the proposed supervisory commission. Such a body, left without court review, as the bill proposes to do, would be a new department of the State Government.

The provisions making for home rule are to be commended. The choice of election commissioners by the people or by the Mayor, with the Council's approval, would be an improvement on the present system.

P. N. JUDSON, Democratic attorney, who assisted in drafting the present St. Louis election law:

I prefer that Gov. Folk explain more in detail his plan for a new election law before venturing an opinion.

Some of his suggestions, I should say offhand, appear somewhat vague and indefinite.

The Republican View.

J. C. McCOY, secretary of the Republican State Committee: I shall reply to Gov. Folk's suggestions later. At this time I merely desire to say that there are some things involved in Gov. Folk's scheme that call for further explanation.

The Republican party has been fighting for years for the elimination of the State board system, both with reference to the Police Department and the Election Commissioners, in the three large cities of the State. Gov. Folk was elected through the votes of Republicans on his home-rule platform.

He did not live up to his promises. When the Legislature passed a home-rule law he vetoed it. Naturally Republicans are inclined to look upon his present proposition with suspicion.

The fact that Gov. Folk has not redeemed the pledges he made before his election will be the cardinal issue of the Republican party in Missouri in the coming State campaign.

JEPTHA D. HOWE, chairman of the Republican City Committee:

I have not had time to study Gov. Folk's suggestions. Of course we want home rule. But above all things we want an election law that will prevent fraud.

Under the present system the election commissioners have no power to eliminate fraudulent votes, if the judges and clerks of election decree otherwise. Neither have the courts the power to do this. In other words absolute authority is vested in the judges and clerks of election.

More Power for Board.

The opportunity for dishonest elections is therefore apparent.

Either the courts or the election commissioners should have the power to review the action of the judges and clerks in the various precincts.

We have had a taste of this false registration in the Fourth Ward. But when we wanted to erase fraudulent names there was no one to whom we could appeal.

This, it appears to me, is the most serious omission in the existing law.

The Republicans are now and have always been willing to meet Gov. Folk on this issue. An honest election law—Election Commissioners under the control of the city over which they exercise jurisdiction—is the kind of election reform we want. If Gov. Folk will carry out that idea sincerely, then he will have the support of the Republican party.

C. D. CORUM, Boonville, Mo., member of Democratic State Committee:

I am in thorough sympathy with Gov. Folk's election law suggestions. We have no registration in the country at present, and men who can't read or write are permitted to vote.

I believe the voters should be registered in the country just as they are in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph.

Our election laws need overhauling and Gov. Folk seems to have hit upon a plan that should prove a popular one.

JAMES W. ALLISON, chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners: The proposal of Gov. Folk has my unqualified indorsement. I think the prohibition of assistance to voters in preparing ballots highly desirable. The manner of choosing the election officials is another strong feature of the plan.

nstipation and Its Causes

Well-Known Remedy

Constipation is one of man's worst enemies, and half the bodily ills we suffer from are a result thereof. Nature meant that the bowels should be kept free and open—that we should have a free movement at least once a day. Of course, we ourselves are to a large extent responsible for our troubles by failure to observe Nature's laws. Our habits are irregular, we eat improper food with undue haste, and then we find our bowels do not move, and resort to powerful drugs and medicines, which are so drastic in their action that, although they may purge at first, they damage the tender lining of the stomach and bowels so as to leave a worse condition than before. And why take such injurious and expensive drugs when we can obtain from any druggist, much cheaper, a bottle of Nature's own remedy—the famous Mineral Laxative Water—HUNYADI JANOS—bottled at the springs in Hungary; in use nearly half a century. One dose, half a tumblerful, drunk on arising in the morning (slightly warmed for best results), will bring within an hour a refreshing movement—gentle, natural and thorough—without any griping or purging or other bad effects. A whole bottle costs but a trifle. Keep one always on hand. At all druggists.

KISS CAN'T BEAT HOCH, FRIENDS SAY

Mrs. Stanley's Eleven Months' Silence a Point in His Favor.

MANY COUNTIES PLEDGED

Refusal to Nominate Him Would Be Laughable, His Supporters Say.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 30.—Opinion is divided over the probable political effect of the story that Gov. Hoch kissed the wife of former Gov. Stanley when Mrs. Stanley was in the executive office on business connected with her position as a member of the State Board of Control. Many of the delegates attending the convention which opened here today, say that the affair is serious and that the party would make a mistake to nominate a candidate against whom the Democrats could present such strong arguments in the campaign.

W. H. Mackey, United States Marshal for Kansas, said:

"This matter is serious. While I am not mixing in politics, I know enough about the game from having practiced it for years to know that it would be a bad piece of business for us to nominate a candidate against from such a story as that is afloat. I think it would be a mistake."

The leaders among the supporters of Gov. Hoch say that no harm can come from the story. D. W. Mulvane, Republican National Committeeman, said:

"We would be the laughing stock of the nation if we did such a silly thing to refuse to nominate Gov. Hoch. It would come out that because it was reported to us four days before the convention that the Governor had kissed a woman we had refused to nominate him; this in the face of the fact that 75 of the 105 counties in the State have instructed their delegates to vote for Hoch for renomination."

One of the reasons for the story failing flat so far as political effect is concerned is that another story has been set afloat to the effect that the kissing occurred in April, 1905. Those who are opposed to Gov. Hoch cannot work up much antagonism on the strength of a story told by a woman who waited 11 months after the alleged insult before she resigned her position. At the time the affair is said to have occurred, Mrs. Stanley had not received a commission from Gov. Hoch. She made a trip to Iowa to study conditions in State institutions there, and later made several trips to Kansas institutions.

Mrs. T. R. Heintz Safe.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Morell of 1805 Hickory street have received word from their daughter, Mrs. T. R. Heintz, stating that she escaped personal injury in the San Francisco earthquake and is now living at Alameda. She will return to St. Louis as soon as possible.

city. The Spring Valley Water Co. cannot furnish water to that part of the city saved and a new order prohibits water for any purpose but cooking and drinking.

Gen. Greeley decided yesterday that he will soon cease giving rations to able-bodied men. He said:

"I shall fix a date in the near future when no more food will be given to any but women and children. The giving away of meals such as few of these people have ever been accustomed to must stop. The expense of this charity is enormous, and if it is kept up in the way it is now being conducted the funds will soon be dissipated.

"I believe that such charity is misapplied. Out of a line of 400 waiting for a free meal the other day a contractor could get but four men to go to work at $2 a day. This sort of thing must stop. The men must go to work."

Secretary Taft Criticised.

The Finance Committee is chagrined at the action of Secretary Taft in spending $2,200,000 of the Congressional relief fund without consulting them. Chairman Phelan made a gloomy speech, in which he said that the Rockefeller and Standard Oil contributions were being distributed through Standard Oil agents, and that probably many other heavy contributions, which had been put down to the credit of the committee, might be distributed in the same way.

"We have but $518,000 of real money," said he, "though funds placed to our credit in all parts of the country total $5,500,000."

All the railroad yards are filled with supply trains, and they are still coming in unknown numbers. There is a promise of a big oversupply of tents when the Taft purchases are all in.

What is really needed now is clothing, cooking utensils and furniture. So diligent are some of the Telegraph Hill people that troops discovered at several places supplies enough to stock a grocery store. The supply had been obtained largely by children, who made the rounds of a score of relief stations. The supplies were seized and the greedy ones arrested.

All sorts of plans for financing San Francisco to meet the demand for rebuilding are being submitted to the Mayor. One plan is for the city to issue $40,000,000 of 5-per-cent bonds and put them in the market. It was also urged that the State be asked to issue $25,000,000 in bonds for improvement of the water front and erection of State buildings. There is some opposition, however, to an extra session of the Legislature.

Tuesday morning depositors in the commercial banks may check out up to $500 through the clearing house, which will have headquarters in the Mint. The bankers estimated that it will require $110,000,000 besides the insurance to restore the city.

The National City Bank, the Chemical National and First National, all of New York, have sent most encouraging telegrams to their correspondents here and in Oakland. The savings banks which had big loans in real estate have decided to stand together; they will pursue one policy, and the strong will help the weak. Only emergency payments of $50 to $100 will be made at first. The labor famine is becoming more acute every day. The Southern Pacific officials say they have carried more than 50,000 persons east of Ogden. Fully that many fled north and south along the coast. H. H. McCarthy, head of the Trades Council, estimates that 30,000 laboring men have gone, probably never to return.

FOOTBALL BLAMED FOR YOUTH'S DEATH

Sam McCully, Aged 19, Wasted From 160 Pounds to 100 After Kick on Gridiron.

Standing beside the coffin of 19-year-old Samuel B. McCully in the parlor of the family home at 4310 West Morgan street, his mother, six brothers and three sisters mourned Monday for a death which adds one to the long list of football fatalities.

A leading member of the Central High School class of next June, young McCully was forced to give up his studies a little over a year ago, as a result of a severe kick in the stomach during a gridiron battle in the fall of 1904.

McCully died at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, having but returned a month ago from a journey to New Mexico, taken in the vain hope of benefit.

The boy's father, William McCully, who supervised the erection of the new City Hall, the Commercial Building and other important St. Louis structures, died six months ago from worry over his son's condition. He was 65 years old.

Sam, as he was known to his classmates and a host of friends, weighed 160 pounds before his injury, was well and hearty, prominent in class work and athletics. When he died he weighed scarcely 100 pounds.

"Two loved ones taken from us by football in six months," said Thomas R. McCully, a brother, Monday morning as he stood beside the casket.

"They will try to tell us that it was not the football injury that killed Sam, but there is no doubt of it, and no doubt either that it was worry over Sam's condition that killed our father."

Tried to Hide Cause.

"Sam didn't want us to know at first that it was the kick in the stomach that made him begin soon afterwards to feel badly, but when the doctors told us what it was, he wouldn't deny it."

The funeral services will be held from the family residence at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Dr. William J. McKittrick.

Young men in the neighborhood, associates of Sam McCully since childhood, will act as pall-bearers. The interment will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Teachers and pupils of the High School have been frequent callers at the home since Sam returned from his journey West. Those who called early Monday morning on their way to school were startled when they approached the front door and found white crepe and a string of pale pink carnations on the doorknob.

WILLIE ENGLER JOHNNIE ENGLER WILLIAM F. ENGLER

PRISON IS PART OF LID LIFTER'S CRUISE

John Rawie Laid Up for Repairs at Four Courts After Trying to "Clean Out" News Stand—His Mother Pulled Policeman's Hair.

The log of the stout craft, "Lid Lifter," on a cruise in quest of trouble, as far as compiled to date, ends with the entry:

Monday morning—In dry dock at Four Courts, laid up for repairs and waiting for the warrant officer.

The record preceding this covered stirring events Sunday afternoon and evening in this wise:

4 to 8 p. m., Sunday—Anchored under the guns of Fort Mulvihill in an alley in the rear of 816 South Seventh street to take on a cargo of beer. Loading rapidly with assistance of volunteers.

8:10—Skipper John Rawie starts on the cruise in quest of trouble, making a sortie on the news stand of Phil Rohmann at 810 South Seventh street and vowing by the great horn spoon that he will "clean out the place."

8:11—Mrs. Phil Rohmann, standing behind the counter, sees the skipper's butcher knife, which he flourishes in her face.

Mrs. Rohmann Screams.

8:12—Mrs. Rohmann attempts to repulse the boarding party with a volley of screams.

8:13—Knife business still flourishing. Enter Phil Rohmann, accompanied by two husky Post-Dispatch hustlers. Rohmann grabs the knife, but gets it by the blade and cuts his hand. Pulls a revolver from his starboard pocket.

8:15—Rohmann is about to shoot, when his first mate, Frank Bishop, seizes the gun. He gets an awkward hold on the weapon and it is discharged, the bullet entering Bishop's right leg.

8:16—John and Mary Rawie, father and mother of the skipper of the "Lid Lifter," appear on the scene. General orders to fight at close quarters, all hands engage.

8:18—Patrolman Thomas Dalton on marine service sails in. Rapid and accurate single stick work.

8:19—Skipper Rawie goes down with all on board, Dalton sitting athwart him, amidships.

Woman Pulls His Hair.

8:20—Signals of distress from Mrs. Rawie, who uses grappling hooks, nature's own brand, on Dalton's hair.

8:22—Dalton's face bumps the floor, but he lays about him with his capstan bar and retreats in good order with the "Lid Lifter" in tow, and makes 12 knots an hour to the booby hatch.

8:25—And all's well.

Rohmann says he doesn't know why Rawie tried to clean out the news stand.

"He just came along with a beer bucket in his hand and said he was going to make a rough house," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Bishop is at the City Hospital, where it is said the wound in his leg is not serious.

GLAD HUSBAND WHO SHOT HER IS DEAD

Wife Does Not Regret That Christopher Rousche Killed Himself.

Begging pitifully to have her baby brought to her, Mrs. Bertha Rousche, whose husband, Christopher Rousche, killed himself after shooting her, lies on her cot at the City Hospital without grief for the death of Rousche. Her only regret seems to be that at the time she married him, three years ago, she broke her engagement to marry an old schoolmate and eloped with Rousche, whom she had known only two weeks. Her old sweetheart is still unmarried and resides in St. Louis.

Mrs. Rousche's right arm was broken by a bullet from her husband's revolver. She does not blame him, saying that if he had not been under the influence of liquor he would not have molested her Saturday night, but she cannot understand his attempt on their baby's life.

"I knew Christ two weeks before we were married," she said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday, "and the first day we met he proposed to me. I was 17 years old at the time, and engaged, but I listened to him. Since that day I have known only a few months of happiness.

"It was on Sunday I met him. I was with a party of friends at a summer garden. In the party was the young man to whom I was engaged. My father and mother, too, were at the garden. A friend called me and introduced me to Christ. There was something about him that appealed to me. I have tried to explain it a number of times since, but have failed. He proposed to me that day and I foolishly accepted.

Marriage a Regret.

"How many times I have regretted my step I cannot say. I broke my previous engagement and arranged with Chris to go to St. Louis to be married. My home at that time was in East St. Louis.

"We were married at the home of a friend and it was some time before my parents found out that I was married. I tried to keep the fact from them. They quickly forgave us, however.

"Christ began to drink shortly after the marriage and since has often threatened my life. We separated two years ago and I went to live with my sister, Mrs. Laura Rey. Christ made many attempts to see me and I always agreed when he was sober. When he came Saturday night my attention was attracted by my little nephew, who called to say to me that 'Trist,' that's the way the little one called him, was waiting to see me.

"As soon as I saw him I knew he was drunk and told him I did not want to talk to him. He forced his way inside the door and moved toward me. I had the baby in my arms and tried to go into the next room. He seemed to divine my intention and shot at the baby in my arms. He seemed to have taken deliberate aim, but the bullet missed.

Shielded Baby From Bullets.

"I placed the baby back of me, pleading with him to stop shooting, but he aimed at me next. I screamed. The bullet hit my arm and, as I turned my head, I saw him place the revolver to his own temple and pull the trigger. I must have fainted, for when I awoke I was on the way to the City Hospital.

"I do not feel sorry that Christ is dead. It is probably the best thing that could have happened for both of us."

She said that she was friendly with Rousche's family and that her husband was angry at Mrs. Rey and also at his own sister, Mrs. Bertha Shields, for befriending her after their separation.

The shooting took place at the home of Mrs. Rey, 3455 De Kalb street. Mrs. Rey is caring for the child of her sister.

WOMAN JUMPED WITH HER BABIES

Mrs. Rose Engler Saved Little Ones When Automobile Struck Carriage.

HER FOREHEAD BRUISED

Another Child Also Bruised by Leaping From Vehicle During Accident.

Brown-eyed Johnnie Engler and his baby brother were the only members of the family of William F. Engler of 5317 Labadie avenue who bore no scars Monday. Mrs. Rose Engler, their mother, was badly bruised in saving them from injury when the surrey in which they were driving Sunday afternoon in Forest Park was truck by a 20-horse-power automobile.

The touring car was driven by Frederick Smith of 4957 Park View place. With him was John Mulhall of 3818 West Pine boulevard.

Mr. Engler was driving the surrey and Willie, 3 years old, sat with him. Mrs. Engler and Johnnie were on the rear seat, and she held the baby in her arms.

Mr. Engler was walking his horse east in the Grand drive in the park, near the bandstand. Running west on the drive was a series of automobiles, with Mr. Smith's in the van.

From a small driveway opening into the Grand drive at that point another automobile was driven toward the point where, crazed with fear, the surrey and machines were to met. In avoiding this car Mr. Smith veered so that his machine crashed into the rear right wheel of Engler's vehicle, demolishing it. A sidebar cracked loudly and the shafts of the surrey were torn from it by the frightened lurch of the horse.

Woman Jumped With Children.

Mrs. Engler gathered Johnnie into her arms with the baby, as she saw the collision impending, and half rose. When the crash came she jumped, still clasping both children to her breast. Her forehead struck the upright of the surrey and was cut and bruised.

The lurch of the surrey on the broken wheel offset the check received when her forehead was struck, and she fell forward to her knee in the driveway. But she did not drop either child. She rose and carried them to one side of the road.

Mr. Engler made an effort to pick up Willie, but the boy jumped and fell in the driveway, only slightly bruised. The rearing horse threatened to do him injury, and Mr. Engler grasped the reins.

The vehicle was left standing in the park, and the Engler family returned home in another carriage. Mr. Smith offered to defray all the damages resulting from the accident, and Mr. Engler did not lodge any complaint against him.

The park was thronged with people, the greatest congestion being at the point where the collision occurred. It was necessary for mounted policemen to disperse the crowd.

This Briton Is Strenuous.

Alan Drummond is that refreshing variety, a strenuous Briton. His strenuousness has got him into plenty of adventures, which are thrillingly depicted in "A Rock in the Baltic," Robert Barr's foremost novel, which will begin in serial form in the Sunday Post-Dispatch next Sunday. It is the first of 12 splendid novels comprising the Sunday Post-Dispatch's $150,000 series, a series that is revolutionizing the literary world.

Runaway Lacked License.

L. M. Rumsey of 4378 Westminster place was arrested Sunday on a charge of running an automobile without a license. A warrant was issued by Justice Preiss, and Mr. Rumsey was released on his own recognizance. Special Deputy Sheriffs Moss and Banker, appointed to stop "scorching" in St. Louis County, made the arrest. Half an hour later they arrested W. E. Sheehan, charging him with failure to exhibit his license on his car. Justice Preiss also issued a warrant against Sheehan.

TEN SLEEPERS SAVED IN FIRE

Three Buildings Destroyed by Early Blaze in Brooklyn, Ill.

Fire early Monday destroyed three frame buildings at Second and Madison streets, Brooklyn, Ill., occupied by the saloon and boarding house of Thomas Koen.

The fire was discovered by J. J. Egan, night bartender in John Greenwald's saloon, across Second street. Egan sent William Price to arouse the inmates of the burning and threatened houses. Greenwald, when he saw that the fire endangered the business part of Brooklyn, called on the East St. Louis fire department for assistance, and a hose wagon was sent from East St. Louis.

Ten guests and employes were asleep in the buildings. They escaped unhurt, but saved little more than necessary clothing. Koen estimates his loss at $600, and had no insurance. The buildings belonged to the Helm brewery, and are said to have been valued at $2500.

FIVE OF FAMILY DIE IN 6 MONTHS

Grief Is Believed to Have Hastened Michael Ganley's End.

The death of Michael J. Ganley, 30 years old, who died Saturday at St. John's Hospital, after more than a year's illness, which resulted from a cold, is the fifth of the Ganley family in six months. His wife, two children and his wife's mother have preceded him within that time.

Mr. Ganley was an inspector for the St. Louis & Suburban Railway, and since the death of his wife had been boarding. It is believed that his death was hastened by grief.

The funeral will take place from 1215 Mullanphy street, the home of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mannion, Tuesday at 8:30 a. m., to St. Ann's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Ganley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ganley of Waterloo, Ill., who are here to attend the funeral.

CHILD KILLED BY HEAVY FIXTURE

Invalid Alton Mother May Die From Attempt to Save Daughter.

Mrs. John Rowley, mother of 4-year-old Belle Rowley, who was killed in Alton Sunday afternoon by the fall of a heavy saloon bar, is herself in a dangerous condition as the result of leaving her bed, in which slept her one-day-old baby, and rushing to her daughter's assistance. It is said that the mother may not recover the shock.

Belle Rowley was playing with her sister, Mary, 6 years old, in the Rowley yard at Second and Ridge streets, Alton, on top of the heavy bar. It had been taken from the saloon of Louis Putze a short time before and placed leaning against the side of the Rowley residence. The two girls were dancing about on the tottering bar, when it toppled over.

In its fall the elder of the children was thrown out from the top far enough to escape being pinioned under the bar, but Belle Rowley was struck on the head by the heavy corner of the fixture and fell beneath the bar, crushing her head against the brick pavement. She was instantly killed.

The screams of the elder sister reached the ears of Mrs. Rowley, to whom a child had been born only the night before. The mother, forgetful of her own peril, sprang from her bed and rushed to the yard. She joined at first in the efforts to raise the bar from her daughter's head, but was overcome by the horror of the experience and was carried back into the house by her husband. It then required the strength of several men to extricate the body of the dead girl.

CITY EMPLOYES WANT THEIR PAY

General Appropriation Bill May Be Delayed a Month or Even Longer.

Between 50,000 and 100,000 different individuals are waiting anxiously for the members of the Municipal Assembly to pass the general appropriation bill, which will give the City Treasurer the power to pay their salaries.

There are 5000 city employes. It is estimated that each city employe, besides those who are dependent on him, has between 10 and 20 persons who are financially interested in him.

The bill, in skeleton form, is now in the hands of the Ways and Means Committee of the Council. It is hoped by those interested that the Ways and Means Committee will report the bill out inside of two weeks.

But even after the committee has reported the bill out it will have to be passed by the Council and the House before it finally goes to the Mayor. This would take all of a month at the usual speed. Some say around the City Hall that the members of the Assembly mean to delay the bill for two months.

If the bill is not passed on May 1 until June 1, $650,000 will be held from these 5000 city employees and the 50,000 or 100,000 others will be short something like $325,000. And if it is not passed them.

Any delay in the passage of the bill will fall particularly hard on the employees at the city institutions. At the City Hospital, Insane Asylum, Poorhouse, and other institutions in the same class, there are something like 300 persons who are getting less than $30 per month for their work. About one-third of these are getting $15 and $20 a month.

The Street Department will also be hit hard by any delay. Then there is the army of those financially interested—butchers, grocers, coal dealers, tailors and haberdashers.

Those who are predicting the holding up of the bill for two months say that certain heads of departments have incurred the displeasure of the august members of the Assembly and that the Assembly will take this method of getting back at the same heads of departments.

CHICAGO'S CITY HALL SUDDENLY SETTLES BADLY

With Snaps and Groans Big Cracks Appear in Walls Inside and Out.

CORNICE STONES FALL

Two Employes Narrowly Escape and Now Ropes Warn of Danger.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Chicago's City Hall has settled to such an extent, since the completion of the excavation for the adjoining new county building, that it was found necessary yesterday to rope in the entrances to prevent pedestrians from being killed by the falling sections of coping and cornices.

At the south end of the building, on Washington street, the foundations have sunk several inches, while the entire building has assumed a list in the direction of the hole which the new building will cover.

The City Hall and the county building were of the same massive construction, and it was necessary to use giant powder to wreck parts of the latter.

Treacherous Foundation.

There was no apprehension of the city's Administrative Building collapsing. However, though its foundation walls are many feet thick, they do not rest on the rock which underlies the city, but merely on the clay subsoil.

Yesterday omnious shivers ran through the building and with many snaps and groans cracks appeared within and without. Hillocks appeared in the board floors and desks assumed angles, the floor tilted and dirt emerged from crevices where it had lain undisturbed for years. Stair flights doubled up and plaster fell from the walls and ceilings.

During the day several pieces of stone fell and two employes narrowly escaped being killed as they were entering the building.

RAILROAD LID ON SLOT MACHINE

Vandalia Removes Catchpenny Devices From the Rural Stations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GREENVILLE, Ill., April 30.—The day of reform seems to have arrived on the Vandalia Railroad, which passes through this city. Today E. E. Elliott, agent for that railroad at this place, received orders from General Manager McKean in St. Louis to remove the slot machines now in the depot to aid the sale of chewing gum and candy to the warehouse. When the Chicago owners make known their wishes Mr. Elliott is to ship the machines as they direct.

Mr. Elliott says it is the policy of the company to get rid of the slot machines in all the depots, now that the contract with the owners has been terminated.

Some citizens here have complained that schoolboys learn the principles of gambling through the devices, and that they spend too much money for the gum and candy. These citizens believe the railroad has instituted a commendable reform. Besides, the machines frequently get out of order and the unwary frequently deposited a penny without getting just return, finding out when too late that the machine would not work.

As there are 120 stations along the Vandalia Railroad, and as each one of them had one or more machines which have been thrown out, to be shipped at once, it is believed the freight train crews will be middling busy getting the machines out of the way in the next few days.

It is reported that in some towns no demand was made for the removal of the machines, but the efforts of the State officers of the Y. M. C. A. and the State Sunday School Superintendents' Union have been very effective toward that end.

COULDN'T SLEEP, ENDS HIS LIFE

Insomnia and Stomach Trouble Cause Martin Hughes to Drink Carbolic Acid.

Insomnia and stomach troubles are thought to have prompted Martin Hughes, aged 28 years, to end his life Sunday by drinking the contents of a two-ounce bottle of carbolic acid at the home of his uncle Martin Garvin of 3920 Lincoln avenue.

Hughes visited his uncle every day and he reached the Garvin home at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Garvin was at church and there was no one at home but Mrs. Garvin. Hughes spoke to Mrs. Garvin and then walked into the bedroom. A few minutes later he beckoned to her, and just as she stepped into the room he fell to the floor. Mrs. Garvin rushed out of the house and asked her next door neighbor to send for a physician. Three physicians were summoned, but Hughes was dead before any of them arrived.

Hughes boarded at 911 North Eleventh street, and had been able to sleep for the last three months only with the aid of drugs. He often complained of having pains in his head, but had never spoken of suicide.

The Coroner held an inquest and the funeral will be held from the Garvin residence Wednesday. The interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

NOTHING MISSING IN CIRCUS PARADE, WEIRD, GIGANTIC

Great and Glittering Pageant Enough to Delight Small Boy—Army of Performers at Handlan's Park Present Interesting Sight—Rhinoceros Rival for Ugly Prize.

The circus is in town. This information has already reached all the small boys, no matter what age they may be, in St. Louis. Thos who had not been inofrmed before received full knowledge Monday morning when the parade, that great, glittering, gorgeous, gigantic gathering of weird, wonderful, welcome, willing world wonders united in one pantomimic, prehistoric, pervasive, popular, pangyric pageant. And there were bands, too.

The parade left Handlan Park, at Laclede and Grand avenues, where Ringling Bros. are at home for the week, came down Washington avenue to Fourth street, south to Chouteau avenue, north on Broadway to Pine street and back to the starting point. The animals looked their prettiest and ugliest, according to their habits and inclinations.

The route of the parade was on both sides of the Courthouse. Judge Hough, on the east side, had the blinds of his courtroom drawn and he proceeded without interruption, though his audience was restless. Judge Ryan, on the Broadway side of the building, was not so fortunate. After the bailiffs had made an ineffectual effort to preserve order Judge Ryan ordered a recess until the parade had passed.

None of the prized features of the circus parade were missing. There was the screaming steam calliope, the golden chariots representing a whole lot of things, a herd of elephants big enough for all necessary purposes, clowns aplenty and two or three brass bands.

Two Trains Came Sunday.

The circus arrived Sunday morning from Terre Haute. That is, two of the five trains needed for transporting the organization arrived during the forenoon. The other trains arrived during the afternoon. The cars which the circus employs will occupy during their stay in the city are banked at Compton avenue, only a few blocks from the circus grounds.

In moving into St. Louis the circus followed the same system that it follows when jumping from a town where only two performances have been given to another town where the stay is to be as brief, except there was more time for doing things. Getting here Sunday, with no performance until Monday afternoon, the workers had plenty of time in which to raise their canvas and they put in six or eight hours doing what they usually do in a fourth of that time.

The kitchen outfit and menagerie arrived on the first train. The stoves on which breakfasts were to be prepared were the first articles to be put in place. These stoves—there are eight or ten of them—were invented by an attache of the Ringling organization. Looking at them from the front they seem to have no stovepipe, though they burn wood. The stovepipe is on the ground behind the stoves, and it extends on the ground outside the tent, where it turns upward and extends 15 feet, giving plenty of draft. The one stovepipe does for each stove. These stoves are about 6x8 feet on top, as large as the chef's range of a hotel kitchen. Two huge tanks, one for tea and one for coffee, are parts of the kitchen equipment.

In front of the kitchen is the huge dining room, divided in the middle into two apartments, one for the workmen and the other for the performers and executive staff. The workmen sit at tables covered with white oilcloth, while the performers and officers have red linen tablecloths with white napkins with the name "Ringling" embroidered in them.

Raising of Big Tent.

The privileged many who were permitted to enter Handlan Park showed most interest in the raising of the "Big Top." A tent, to the circus man, is a "top." The gigantic stretch of canvas in which the ring performances take place, is the "Big Top," and it deserves its adjective prefix, stretching as it does for nearly 450 feet one way by 299 feet the other.

The various sections of which the "Big Top" is composed were scattered about the space designed for its erection. A hundred men would grab one of the huge bundles of canvas and unroll it. Then they would grab its edges and begin spreading it out while a big man bawled:

"Wind it up! Wind it up! Don't drag it on the ground!"

He pronounced "wind" to rhyme with "sinned," and the men, by shaking it exactly as a housewife shakes sheet or quilt to spread it smoothly over a bed, "winded" up the huge canvas spread so that it could be slowly moved over obstructions and left where it belongs.

The 2500 chairs which will be used as reserved seats were already in place on the raised amphitheater along the fence at the west side of the park. Stretching the canvas over these chairs was a slow process and the big man had to continually command the workmen to "wind it up," in order to carry it over the obstructing chairs.

Then the various sections of the tent were laced together. The five center poles had already been placed in position and securely fastened with guy ropes. The raising of the tent required little time, a part of the hoisting being done by two-score men hauling on a rope like a gigantic tug of war and the rest being done by huge horses who showed as much knowledge of what was required of them as their human helpers.

Ringling Brothers have a portable stake-driver this year. It is a miniature pile-driver mounted on a wagon. The heavy hammer is raised by a small gasoline engine and its weight quickly sinks the stake to the required depth.

After the animals were hauled into the menagerie "top" the sides of the cages were removed and the members of the zoo got fresh air and were visible to the curious. A New Yorker who was present found an old friend. She was Fatima, the hippopotamus. She is the daughter of Caliph and Mrs. Murphy, long residents of the Central Park Zoo. Fitima is a big girl now, much bigger and uglier than when, as the baby hippo, she was the star feature of New York's popular park.

The two-horned rhinoceros—only she hasn't two horns yet, only the symptoms of them—is a rival of Fatima for the ugly prize.

The giraffes, with necks so long that there are holes in the tops of their cages, are awkward, but apparently happy.

Heir Found to Amhurst Millions

An heir—or rather an heiress—has been found for the $15,000,000 Amhurst fortune. She is Dorothy Amhurst, lovely heroine of Robert Barr's best novel, "A Rock in the Baltic," which will appear serially in the Sunday Post-Dispatch before being issued in book form. The first installment will be printed next Sunday. Order in advance.

BOYS CONFESS THEFT.

Four Caught on East Side After Market Street Robbery.

Four boys were placed in the Four Courts detention room Monday after being brought from East St. Louis, where they were captured Sunday. They confessed at the East Side Station the theft of a dozen new knives, several pounds of nut candy and a quantity of dice from the bookstore of Mrs. Francis Koshowsky, 701 Market street.

The boys entered through a transom and scattered 5-cent novels over the floor before taking the knives and candy. They fled across the bridge, and were arrested in the railroad yards by Policemen Voltz and Robinson, who thought their actions suspicious.

The boys said they were Earl Young, aged 11, of 1105 High street; Raphael Ortgie, 14, 212 North Third street; Walter Schieble, 13, 110 South Eleventh street, and Walter New, 14, 214 Lombard street. Walter New is a negro.

$20 TEXAS and Return

May 1 and 15, June 5 and 19

Cheap enough if only to the nearest point in Texas.

But it's much better than that. You can go CLEAR ACROSS TEXAS to the Gulf Coast and Rio Grande River without paying any more.

Don't stop at the edge of Texas and think you have seen the State. Go clear through, see it all, and pick out the spot you like best.

The more you see of its fertile soil and genial climate, the better you'll like it.

On the above dates round-trip tickets will be sold from St. Louis at rate of $20.00 to all points in Texas (except El Paso and in that vicinity), also to points in New Mexico east of and including Alamogordo. To many intermediate points in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory rates will be $2.00 higher than the regular fare one way, but will not in any case be higher than the above rate to Texas. Stopovers will be allowed in both directions.

Limit of tickets 30 days, except that to points in Kansas it will be 21 days.

A trip over the Rock Island-Frisco Lines takes you through the best of the Southwest. Go that way and see it all.

Call, or write us for further information desired about rates, schedules, etc., and ask for copies of our illustrated books on Texas and other sections of the Southwest in which you are interested.

Doctor Brigham Says

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties.

"My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for an organic trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength.

"I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement."

Women who are troubled with bloating (or flatulency), weakness or inflammation can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If advice is needed write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. No other living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

Sale of French and American Undermuslins

THE sale of Undermuslins inaugurated today is the culmination of months of planning and dickering, and it must be attributed in great measure to the vast resources we have at our command. If the "hand-to-mouth" buying policy was in operation here—purchasing only when we had to have the goods—we would not be in the position we are in today. Cottons have advanced from 10 to 20 per cent, and plain white fabrics have been affected the most. Our buyers foresaw this condition and laid their plans accordingly. The result is we opened the sale with nearly 30,000 dainty snow-white garments, and the greatest variety of styles we have ever shown at prices that more firmly establish our reputation for giving the best values. You'll not find an undesirable style nor a poorly-made garment in the entire lot—no matter what the price.

Princess Petticoats and Corset Cover combined, of fine quality India linen, with deep ruffle, daintily trimmed with fisheye Val. lace insertion and deep lace ruffle; Corset Cover trimmed to match; ranging in price from $2.98 to $10.95

Exquisite French Lingerie at Very Low Prices

A FEATURE of this White Sale is the extremely low prices we quote for the finest French lingerie. Expecting to occupy our new store the first of May we contracted for about 50,000 francs worth of lingerie. As the quantity is larger than we can conveniently handle in our present quarters, we have to adopt some measure to hasten the selling, and we believe the low prices to be the most effective.

French Chemise of nainsook and mull; daintily hand-embroidered; German Val. lace trimming; finished with hand eyelets and scallops; very special values at $1.50 $2.25, $2.98, $3.95 and up to $9.95.

French Night Robes of fine batiste, nainsook and mull; slip-over and square neck; flowing sleeves; daintily hand-embroidered; German Val. lace trimming; very special values at $2.98, $3.95, $4.95, $5.95 and up to $13.95.

French Petticoats of percale and lawn; deep ruffle; hand-embroidered sprays and hand scallops; others with circular flounce; hand embroidered medallions; lace insertion; very special value at $1.25, $2.98, $4.50 and up to $22.50.

Hand-embroidered Chemise and Drawers, as illustrated above; made of fine French nainsook; Chemise has hand-embroidered spray across the front, finished with hand eyelets and scallops; Drawers have umbrella ruffle; open at knee, hand-scalloped, hand-embroidered spray in corner; splendid value at $1.50; on sale at.....98c

Our Semi-Annual Waist Sale Began This Morning

All Previous Waist Events Will Be Totally Eclipsed---Values and Variety Are Without a Parallel.

TAKEN from every point of view the 12th Semi-Annual Sale of White Waists, which began today, is greater than any previous sale. It involves about 5000 dozen Waists in 400 different styles, and every garment is the product of a reputable manufacturer, and represents the highest degree of workmanship and the acme of clever designing. You'll not find an undesirable number in the entire collection, and withal, these Waists are offered you at prices that represent a saving of ⅓ or more

The best evidence of this sale's merits is the fact that thousands of St. Louis women awaited this event. During the past month we have had any number of inquiries, and women have deferred their Waist purchases, realizing this is an opportunity to supply their wants for much less than the prevailing prices.

TOO MUCH emphasis can not be laid upon the character of these garments—how dainty they are—and how exceptionally well they are made. In referring to these features we are compelled to use superlatives as there isn't a single detail that has been in the least neglected. There is another feature worthy of special mention—and that is the styles are confined to us for St. Louis. The woman who neglects purchasing a sufficient quantity of these waists to last her all summer will make a serious mistake, as materials are considerably higher and the finished garments are therefore bound to advance.

$4.00 and $5.00 White Waists at $2.98

THERE are close to 5000 beautiful Lingerie Waists in this assortment at $2.98, and the styles are by far the cleverest introduced this season; many of them are copies of the highest class models that sell for half a dozen times the price. They are made of allover English eyelet embroidery, French batiste, Paris muslins and imported lawns.

$4 and $5 Waists for 2.98

To give a detailed description of the various styles is an impossibility. We can merely give you a general idea. The trimmings used are Val. and baby Irish lace, medallions, open-work embroidery, broiderie anglaise, broiderie alma, broiderie margo, Irish point effects, handmade blind embroidery and beautiful raised cushion effects, French plaitings, etc.; some have real hand-embroidered medallions inserted; a number have allover lace yokes.

In the new square and round effects, tucks and plaits are very elaborately used; come with high or low necks; long or short sleeves; open front or open back; plenty of all sizes in the various styles; $4.00 and $5.00 values; choice $2.98.

$3.00 and $3.50 White Waists at $1.98

WE show here six out of a hundred styles. It's a variety that precludes all possibility of disappointment, as practically every trimming idea is represented. There are open back and open front styles; long, three-quarter and short elbow sleeves; there are waists with allover embroidery fronts, some with embroidery panels, others having fronts entirely inserted with rows of English eyelet embroidery. Val. lace, medallions, cluster of tucks and plaits are used extensively.

$3 and $3.50 Waists for 1.98

There are waists with round yokes of rows of lace and fine tucking, and low Dutch neck trimmed with combination of laces, Val. and baby Irish. Those with high collars are trimmed with lace to match; the long sleeve waists have deep cuffs of lace and embroidery; the short sleeve waists are finished with rows of Val. lace to match. Every one of the garments is exceptionally well made; not the slightest detail has been neglected, and they fit perfectly; plenty of all sizes; $3.00 and $3.50 values; choice $1.98.

AMPLE provisions have been made to facilitate buying—additional selling space has been allotted and there will be a number of extra salespeople.

WE want to say a final word in reference to the character of these Waists. The materials are the best, the styles superb and they are made in a careful manner.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER. Published by The Pulitzer Publishing Co., 210-212 N. Broadway.

The earthquakes have left the country's trade unshaken.

Every time the Secretary of the Treasury thinks of St. Louis he says O Shaw.

It has been said recently that we have no ruins in this country. What of the late World's Fair?

After reading Secretary Shaw's speech, charity suggests that he believes the American people quit thinking 10 years ago.

The earthquake has made friends of the San Francisco political faction leaders. There are no tremblings of the earth in St. Louis, however.

TWO YEARS.

The article by Mayor Wells in the World Today on the subject of "St. Louis After the World's Fair," a part of which was republished in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, is a timely utterance for the second anniversary of the opening of the Exposition. It embodies astonishing facts of the city's growth and prosperity which utterly confuse the prophets of disaster.

When on that raw April day, two years ago, shivering crowds witnessed amid the unfinished work on the World's Fair grounds, the dedication ceremonies, the air was thick with predictions of failure and disastrous reaction. St. Louis had essayed a tremendous task and had thrown into the scale millions of dollars and years of toil and sacrifice. There were stout hearts full of faith and hope, which were undaunted by the omens and prophesies and the flood of criticism, but many doubted. Two years after, faith is vindicated and hope is realized. A World's Fair, universally recognized as the greatest, was successfully conducted. St. Louis kept all promises and met all obligations. The city is stronger, greater, more prosperous than ever. Instead of disaster and reaction following the Exposition, there has been a remarkable record of advance—a forward movement of extraordinary vigor and scope.

Mayor Wells cites the figures showing an unparalleled increase in all lines of investment and business activity in St. Louis during the year following the Exposition. There was a gain in shipments of weight of 279,014 carloads, or 18 per cent over the unusual record of the World's Fair period and the rate of increase is steadily advancing. The tonnage for six months after the Exposition compared with the six months of greatest Exposition activity, shows an increase of 340,358. Since the close of the World's Fair $12,500,000 have been invested in manufacturing plants. For the year after the Exposition St. Louis enjoyed the distinction among all American cities of having the highest percentage of new building. The gain of 1905 over 1904 in new buildings is 90 per cent. The Exposition year was a record year in bank clearings, but the following year exceeded it by $106,565,061 and exceeded the year preceding the Fair by $389,319,734.

The Mayor rightly remarks that these advances do not indicate a "boom" in the ordinary sense of the word, but are substantial gains on the lines of sound progress. The conditions for continued and greater progress are improving. The bridge monopoly wall is crumbling, the railroads are vastly extending their facilities and with the rapid development of the Southwest, to which St. Louis capital and a leading factor, the city is finding new opportunities for business expansion and new lines of profitable activity.

The Ohio idea has appeared again. This time it takes the form of an attempt to dissolve the Standard Oil Co. and a number of other monopoly corporations and put the property in charge of trustees for the benefit of creditors, shareholders and, let us hope, the dear public. The Ohio idea is always fresh and surprising.

JOHN AND THE "MISSUS."

When John Burns, the workingman, entered the British Cabinet, he took a "job" worth $10,000 a year.

This is big wages. And at a public meeting a woman called out to him, "How do you spend it, John?" He replied: "Ask the Missus." The answer was satisfactory and his fellow workingmen have not lost faith in him, even though he is getting more than the union scale.

There is an instinct in human nature which somehow constrains people to trust the woman, especially if she is a wife and mother. The workingmen and their wives were not sure that John could spend $10,000 a year judiciously. He might drink too much ale; or he might even take to champagne, in the fashion of the fine friends he had made. He might do all manner of things held unseemly by plain people, who live plainly on wages fixed by the union.

But the Missus is "all right." If Mrs. John has the spending of John's wages he can be trusted. He will make a good Cabinet Minister.

This is a homely view of practical public and private morality. But it is probably held by the vast majority of English and Americans.

John Temple Graves, late of the Atlanta Constitution, has his own paper now, the Atlanta Georgian, and the big guns are booming. The Georgian makes a promising debut.

BY TAXATION OR BOND ISSUE.

A correspondent writes to ask about the relative cost to the taxpayers of a bond issue for public improvements, and a fund raised by immediate taxation for that purpose.

The advantage of a bond issue is that it enables the city to make immediate improvements, carrying them through to completion by means of a sum of money realized from the sale of the bonds sufficient to pay the whole cost. The capital sum plus the interest represents the cost to the taxpayers. But since the payment of these bonds is spread over a long period of time, the cost is distributed. The taxpayer of 1906 pays a small proportion of the total. The taxpayers of 1910, 1915 and 1920, who also enjoy the benefit of these improvements, will pay their share.

If the whole cost were defrayed by a tax levy the total cost would be lighter. The total interest paid until the bonds are extinguished measures the difference in expense between the two methods. But taxpayers would not agree to bear the whole burden in one year, or even in five. To get improvements at all on a large scale, the cost must be distributed over a long period and among all the taxpayers who are benefited—the taxpayers of the future as well as those of the present.

In brief, if there were no bond issue taxes would be enormously greater in the present and immediate future—say five years. On the basis of a bond issue they will be greater by the amount of the interest plus whatever is to be set aside from year to year as a sinking fund. This increase will be, relatively, inconsiderable. Sound finance as well as practical necessity requires the bond issue.

The promise of more bumper crops is another proof of the importance of electing a President who makes great soil yields.

AN INSPIRING RECORD.

"We are overwhelmed by the magnitude of the generosity of the country," said Gen. Funston, who has asked that no more food supplies, doctors or nurses be sent to Frisco. The railroads are congested and food trains are still on the way.

This testimony to the overwhelming generosity of the American people to their stricken fellows is supplemented by ex-Mayor Phelan, chairman of the Local Relief Committee, who says that $51,421,438 has been given or proffered.

It is an inspiring record. We hear of the depravity of human nature, of the doctrine of the survival of the fittest in a merciless struggle for existence, and that under our present system men are like beasts of the jungle, eager to devour each other. This San Francisco record gives all of the pessimists the lie. The spirit of human brotherhood is abroad in the land. The sentiment of humanity and mutual helpfulness is active. The response, not merely to the cry for help, but to the need made known, is prompt and overflowing.

There is more glory and promise in the record of the country's generosity to the San Francisco sufferers than in a thousand victories of war.

The country is astonished to learn that the Prohibition Governor of Kansas is a native of Kentucky and that he is to make a speech to the returning Kentuckians.

THE AMERICAN SENSE OF ORDER.

What would have happened in San Francisco if the city authorities had been destroyed in the earthquake and there had been neither soldiers nor police to keep order during the fire?

There are hundreds of seemingly distinct answers on record in American history. When they are compared from the record they agree in supporting the conclusion that if thrown completely on their own resources, with no authority over them, or even with authority against them, the people of San Francisco would have still reorganized at once after the first panic and then would have proceeded at once to work out of their own brains, under direction of their own sense of fitness towards the same results which were disorganized for the time being by earthquake and fire.

Those who doubt this should look into present conditions in Oklahoma, for instance. They may then compare these results of the American sense of fitness with what appeared on the surface when what seemed to be a wild and disorderly mob, overriding all authority or breaking away from it, "stampeded" into the territory at its opening.

The people who created that confusion for a single day would not themselves tolerate it afterwards. Out of their own disorder they established order at once and they have gone on increasing it ever since.

The sense of fitness in 90 people out of a hundred, their power to organize out of the worst confusion, to enforce order, these are the essential facts not only of public authority in America, but of all the great results which are achieved out of the worst difficulties.

The story of San Francisco will interest more people in safety deposits and banks.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

BIRDIE SAYS "THANK YOU."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Let me say to the weather bird:

I see in tonight's paper that you complain that you do not see your address or place of abode in the new directory. You will find that your place is in the hearts of the readers and viewers of the Post-Dispatch—I say viewers because even the little ones look for you and say, "What does birdie say?"

Are you satisfied with your place of abode?

EOLINE STANLEY.

NO LICENSE IS REQUIRED.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Please tell me through the Post-Dispatch if chickens and ducks are allowed inside city limits. If they are not allowed, why do not the police find them? Every hen, duck and rooster should be licensed same as dogs, and—this is far more important—sick, dying fowls are a menace to human life.

"MISSIONARY."

DIDN'T KNOW THE CHILD WAS THERE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

According to accounts in your paper only last Sunday a poor little soul 13 years of age went to spend the afternoon on the bank of the Meramec with another little boy and his father. Two men in a boat passed down the river. One of the men shooting into the bushes along the bank, utterly regardless of anybody who might be in the vicinity, struck the 13-year-old lad over the heart, killing him instantly. The Coroner's inquest rendered a verdict of accidental killing. Poor consolation that to the grief-stricken widowed mother. It seems to me that the county authorities should take some action in this matter. Something must be done to protect the lives of people who seek recreation along the banks of this beautiful river. If the good people of St. Louis who come out to the Meramec to row could be made to realize constantly the great danger of shooting into shady nooks along the river banks they would be much more careful, and then, and only then, can we who drive along that beautiful shady road from Meramec Highlands to Valley Park do so with any degree of security.

THOMAS W. CORLEY.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS FOR NEGROES.

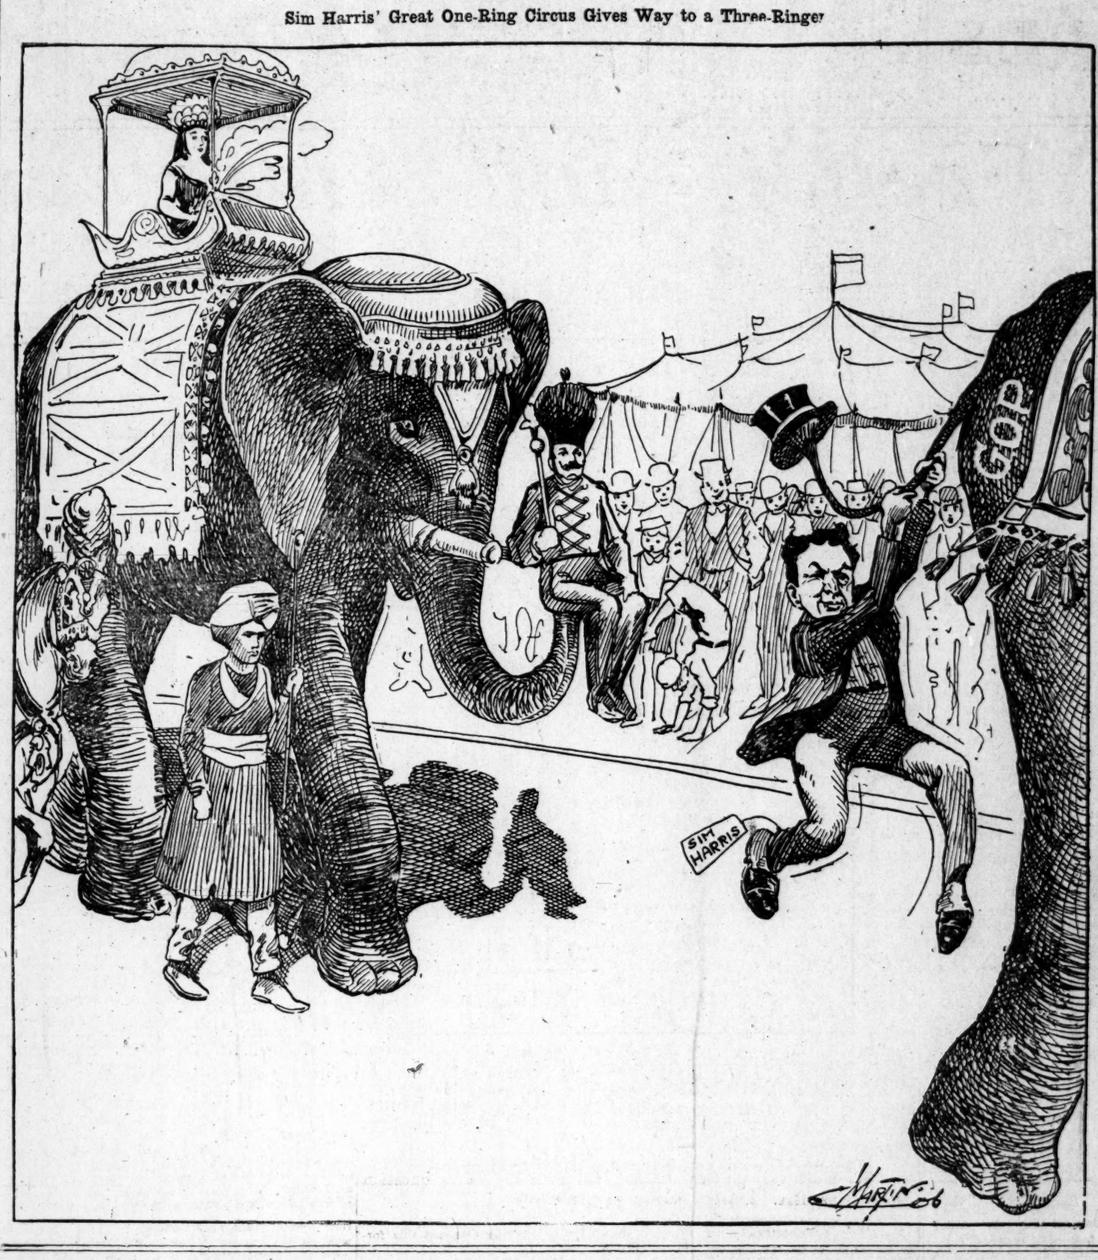

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Noticed the article of Tuesday on the necessity of a colored industrial school in St. Louis. There is a great necessity for a school for colored boys and girls who are educated and without a position. It would not only help the boy or girl along, but would help make men and women for citizenship instead of criminals. Passing the streets where respectable colored families live and seeing fine-looking, educated boys and girls idle, without position, makes one think they are a lazy, trifling set, when they are not. They only need a little more finishing touch, some kind of trade.

FATHER AGAIN.

Nobody wakes but father,
And he gets up at dawn
And makes an awful pother
Mowing on the lawn.

Considering that father
Can sit around all day,
The neighbors think it rather*
Ill-timed to make his hay.

They think that he should stop it,
And wildly tear their hair;
But it appeals to pop it
Is none of their affair.

Dear father has a knack at
This outdoor sort of thing;
But he makes such a racket
That folks are threatening.

He gets up very early,
And mowing seems to suit him;
But we're afraid some burly
Along the block will shoot him.

Nobody wakes but father,
But when his mower sings,
The neighbors wake with "Bother!"
And even sterner things.

*Boston pronunciation.

FUSS AND FEATHERS.

Father Francis M. Kielty, pastor of the Holy Angels' Church in St. Louis, not only seeks to correct faults of the head and heart, but faults of speech as well. Father Kielty is a chicken fancier. The other day a friend who was looking at the priest's chickens said:

"That's a fine rooster."

"You mean that cock?" asked the priest.

"I mean the red fellow with the scarlet fungus on his dome," the visitor explained.

"As I supposed," said the priest; "but you should be more explicit. That is a cock. To call it a rooster is to fall into a very common error of speech. The word rooster applies to all feathered creatures that roost."

Father Kielty is undoubtedly right, and he has the most of us on the hip. We haven't looked it up, but it looks reasonable. Of course, a hen is as much of a rooster as a rooster is. Also, all the hens are roosters. A rooster is as likely to be a hen as not. A hen, upon the other hand, is as likely to be a rooster as a rooster is to be a hen.

They are all roosters, and there is no difference between a rooster rooster and a rooster hen. A rooster hen—

No, we're getting tangled up. To begin again: A rooster is not always a rooster. Again, a hen is a rooster. And again, it is possible for a rooster rooster to be a hen. And a hen rooster is always a rooster. But is a rooster rooster a rooster if it is a rooster hen? and is a hen rooster—

Help!

The Cardinals did look down.

HUSBANDS WITH 10 CENTS A WEEK

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

JOHN JENDRICH has been sentenced by a Chicago his wife with over his entire weekly salary of $18 to court to turn the exception of one little dime which he will be permitted to squander on his personal needs.

John doubtless considers this judicial interference in his personal affairs most unwarrantable, and viewed from the angle of strict equity it is. Nevertheless it is probably the best thing that ever happened to John. For it will immediately divorce him from that sweetest, most clinging of human errors, the notion that he owns him-f or any portion thereof.

Sometimes in our wildest imaginings, when our ears are deadened momentarily to the music of our chains and we feel only their galling slavery, come visions of a nice little desert island all our own, with a very high stone wall about it and inside absolutely no one but ourselves; no deadly hour at which we have to get up; no tortured quarter hour before it in which we hope that another miracle may cause the sun or the clock to stand still; nobody to tell us to put on rubbers or not to lose our umbrella; no bills to pay; no calls to make or submit to; no jokes we have to laugh at, whether they are funny or not; no one we are obliged to listen to, no matter how much they bore us—in short, a wild, sweet waste of glorious liberty. And then the postman's whistle cuts sharply through our dream; we wake from it to hope he brought a letter from one best loved, and a maid hands us the gas bill.

John Jendrich of Chicago should rejoice. He has 10 cents to spend at his own sweet will, and perhaps his spouse will considerately refrain from asking how he is squandering it, thereboy taking the bread out of his children's mouths, if he fails to give an accounting of it. Perhaps.

People who have no money or very little money have dreams, the divinest heritage of the poor. The little factory girl scraping and saving for one Easter frock, which she proudly exhibits to her best young man, gurgling delightedly at his admiration, is far happier in it than the girl who orders her gowns by the dozen and so misses all the hope and fear and fine triumph of them.

Poverty gives us dreams, and dreams happiness.

John Jendrich, with his weekly 10 cents in his pocket, can dream now about a 15-cent cigar, a gin rickey, a whisky straight or any other delectable thing that it takes more than 10 cents to purchase. And then he can squander the 10 cents on the evening papers. Happy man!

AMERICA THROUGH FUNNY GLASSES

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Irvin S. Cobb.

A LARGE bet is being overlooked by the journeymen revolutionists who do revoluting by the day, week or job down in Banana America. These gentlemen nearly always linger too long after the fireworks and funeral processions start, and the opposition forces overcome them and insert them into an earthenware Jail about the size of the hole they dig in this country to plant a telephone pole in, and having the same hygienic and architectural arrangements.

When the game begins to look dangerous, they should fly to these friendly and sucker-lined shores. It's getting so that no up-to-date literary home here is complete without a revolutionist lying on the bed in the company room in his long horse-hide or boudoir boots, eating cigarettes in bulk, and thinking up mean things to say about us in his next book.

Of course this doesn't apply to the ordinary practical revoluter of commerce, who comes third class with half a bale of shredded whiskers, a suit of clothes that was cut out with a knife and fork, and a small cook book telling 47 ways of serving bombs. The only attentions showered upon the steerage brand of revolutionist on arrival are sprayed out of a formaldehyde squirtgun at Ellis Island, and if he begins indulging in any revolutionary doctrines in public, a defender of our liberties from the police station will club his sky-line off and the city will take away his pushcart license.

But it's different if he has produced a play that runs seven hours and nobody can understand, or if he wears something that looks like a cross between a kimono and a hearth rug. He is greeted enthusiastically by the amateur Socialists, who believe in the confiscation of all fortunes except those which they acquired by marriage. Also by the kind-faced domestic revolutionists, perfect daredevils, who live on predigested breakfast food and wear health underwear. One and all, they take in the professional revolutionist, and as soon as he gets a chance he does as much for them.

THE FUNNY PART:

When a native-born revolutionist rolls into town under a boxcar he is called a hobo and jugged for vagrancy.

STORIES TOLD IN WASHINGTON

To a Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Gen Bates gave a dinner at the Country Club last week in honor of Lieutenant-General Corbin. One of those invited was Senator Bacon of Georgia.

The dinner was to be at 8 o'clock and the Senator arrived at the Chevy Chase Club about a quarter before that hour. He came out on a street car and was dressed to nines.

"In what room is Gen. Bates giving his dinner?" he asked one of the club attendants.

"I know of no dinner here tonight, sir," the attendant replied.

"Nonsense!" said the Senator. "Gen. Bates is giving a dinner here in honor of Gen. Corbin."

There was a consultation, and it was discovered that the dinner was at the Country Club and not at the Chevy Chase Club.

"How can I get there?" asked Senator Bacon.

"It is about a mile across the golf course and the fields," they told him, and the Senator started to make the short cut.

It was dark. He walked out on the golf course. As soon as he got outside of the circle of the light of the clubhouse, he fell over a bunker. He took another tack and fell over another bunker. Then he ran into a sand trap and for half an hour wandered around the golf course, falling over every bunker there was and over some of them twice.

By this time he was wet, muddy, dishevled and so angry that he walked into another puddle and added some more mud to his collection. He finally got off the golf course and plunged through two or three marshy fields to the club.

"Is Gen. Bates giving a dinner here?" he asked of a club attendant.

"Yes, sir," said the attendant, looking at the muddy Senator suspiciously, "but I do not think he can be disturbed."

Senator Bacon fairly snorted at this.

"Tell him Senator Bacon of Georgia is out here," he commanded, and the frightened attendant went in. Gen. Bates came out and found the disconsolate statesman standing in a pool of muddy water that had dripped from him.

"Why, Senator," he exclaimed, "what is the matter?"

"Matter?" shouted Bacon, "Nothing at all; nothing, of course, nothing—only I have been falling over a series of hills and into a series of valleys out there in the —— field, and that I have also been precipitated into at least two bodies of water."

"Come in to dinner," said Gen. Bates soothingly.

"No, sir," said Bacon, "I cannot. I am too muddy. Please let me have a sandwich and I will go home."

And that is the reason why there was a vacant chair at Gen. Bates' dinner.

THE GIRL FROM KANSAS

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Alice Rohe.

"OPAL ST. CYR says the only reason Percy Harold Van Arden affects the studio tea habit is to save board," said the Girl from Kansas. "Opal is such a jealous cat, though. She's sore because Mr. Van Arden, who writes lovely poetry, has been paying attention to Francina.

"As for me, I don't see where the board bill saving would come in. It would take a round of visits to all the studios in St. Louis just to have the edge taken off your appetite.

"Percy Harold Van Arden has almost talked Francina into giving a tea. He says it is the proper thing for her to do if she wants to get in with interesting people.

"Just why jamming a lot of people into an eight by ten room and serving tea and wafers should be a ticket of admittance into the elect is more than I can see, unless the interesting people are always hungry.

"Percy Harold says for her first tea Francina ought to have something a little extra in the way of encouragements just to encourage the right sort of people to come. Francina's crazy to meet the real Bohemian element who actually do things, but Opal, the cat, says the ones who spend their time advertising their Bohemianism never did anything in their lives but call their hall bedrooms 'studios' and get their meals at the pink teas.

"Francina says she's got to have a tea, though, and she's planning just how to crowd the people in so they can drink without being walked on. Percy Harold Van Arden assures her that the real people don't mind being uncomfortable. He knows a lady who writes for the magazines who gave a lovely tea to 100 people, and her room isn't as large as Francina's.

"Opal says anything can write for magazines, but—it's funny you never see their names in the index."

DEMBLON.—You might win a suit against your employer by showing loss through delay in payment after your discharge.

SITTING.—A discharged man can sue for money due him. Whether he recovers may depend upon the nature of his contract.

RAYMOND.—A Spanish grant is a grant of land by the Spanish Government. There were many such grants in the early days of the Louisiana Territory.

NELL.—Perspiration stains are the most difficult to remove, but sometimes by rubbing the spots with soap and laying the garment in the hot sun they will disappear.

FISHERMAN.—Illinois fish law makes it unlawful at any time to fish in inland lake with trout line or set line. It is unlawful to take any fish, except by hook and line, between April 15 and Aug. 1.

L. W. D.—Marriage license issued in any Missouri county is good in any other Missouri county. Both parties must be present in applying for license, unless someone is present who can vouch for the applicant.

SUB.—Chocolate sirup: Half pound best chocolate, 3 ounces gelatin, 4 pints water, 7 pounds sugar. The chocolate and gelatin are dissolved in the water by boiling, then the sugar is added and stirred until dissolved.

POLITICIAN.—N. C. Hudson, R., and Joseph F. McHose, D., were candidates for City Collector in 1881. McHose was defeated, but his vote was larger than that of any other nominee on the Democratic ticket.

J. O. B.—If there is no agreement otherwise, the tenant is bound to repair the house. The landlord can be compelled to do so only when the contract puts the obligation on him. (Coin premiums published Monday or Tuesday only.)

ERNA.—"Amicus certus in re incerta cenitur" (Latin), means, True friends are known by trouble; a friend in need is a friend indeed. (Literally) a sure friend is made manifest in a doubtful matter (when one is in difficulty).

MARY.—To keep hair in curl: Three ounces powdered gum arabic in half pint rosewater. It may be applied to the curls after they are released from the curlers. Do not use an iron; use any convenient curler which does not require heat.

EDW. F.—In all classes of vessels Great Britain easily leads the world. Sixty battleships, 7 coast-defense ships, 171 cruisers, 115 gunboats, 149 torpedo-boat destroyers, 188 torpedo boats, 383 transports, hospital, special service, ships, tugs, etc., 67 subsidized and auxiliary ships, 29 school and training ships.

ETTAARE.—To keep hair fluffy and curly: Keep it clean, using yolk of egg. Beat egg into pint warm water and rub into scalp, first wetting head all over in warm water. Rinse through several waters, until every bit of egg is out; put a pinch of powdered borax in the rinsing water. Dry well and put hair up on kid rollers. It should stay fluffy a week. Use the shampoo every two weeks.

B. D.—Canned asparagus: Into an asparagus boiler put an abundance of salted water, and when it boils lay in the asparagus; boil until tender, but not broken or soft; lift out carefully, stand on end with the tops up in fruit jars, fill the jars to overflowing with the boiling salted water and seal immediately; be sure that the rubbers are in good condition, and, as the asparagus cools, screw down the tops; keep in a cool, dark place.

P. P.—The mother canary, says Watson, may cover the first egg laid, but does not begin to sit close until the second egg has been laid, consequently it is 13 days from the time the second egg has been laid until the first young bird is hatched, the remainder of the eggs being hatched in the order in which they were laid, 13 days from the laying of each egg, there sometimes being four or five days' difference in the age of the birds, the last born often dying, being too weak to struggle successfully for its portion of food.

B. AND F.—State flowers: Alabama, goldenrod; Arizona, giant cactus; Arkansas, apple blossom; California, California poppy; Colorado, purple and white columbine; Delaware, peach blossom; Georgia, Cherokee rose; Idaho, syringia; Illinois, rose; Iowa, wild rose; Kansas, sunflower; Kentucky, goldenrod; Louisiana, magnolia; Michigan, apple blossom; Minnesota, moccasin; Mississippi, magnolia; Missouri, goldenrod; Montana, bitterroot; Nebraska, goldenrod; New Jersey, State tree, sugar maple; New York, rose; North Dakota, goldenrod; Oklahoma, mistletoe; Oregon, Oregon grape; Rhode Island, violet; Texas, bluebonnet; Utah, sago lily; Vermont, red clover; Washington, rhododendron; West Virginia, rhododendron.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

NOVELTY is the keynote of the performance given by the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels, who opened a week's engagement at the Century last night, and there's so much novelty that very little distinctive minstrelsy is left, but the offering affords better entertainment, perhaps, for that very reason. The program is, indeed, a vaudeville bill, with about an even break of black and white-face players, and the opening night's audience seemed to like the arrangement very much.

In the first part, which burlesques the famous newspaper Gridiron Club of Washington, the company is brought on in a swiftly changing succession of colored lights and with a rush of action that promises well for spirited work. Singing begins almost at once, among the ditties that have some suggestion of an old-time minstrel show being "Sally Ann," by Bern Granville; "Hallelujah," by Dave Nowlin; "Ringing Bells," by John Healey, and "Gimme de Leavin's," by Billy Clark. Then, too, Al. Field finally drops in on the scene as an old-fashioned negro and does a good monologue stunt. Many sentimental ballads are also introduced, and some uncommonly good voices were heard in them, while there's one feature of selections from "Martha" so well sung as genuinely to astonish the house. In another feature of the first part Dave Nowlan makes up as an ebony counterfeit of President Roosevelt, who comes as a guest of the Gridiron Club, preceded by "Uncle Joe" Cannon, Secretary Taft, Chauncey Depew, Admirals Togo and Rojestvensky and other distinguished personages, including Poultney Bigelow with a muck-rake, who announces that he has 10 minutes in which to expose Panama Canal scandals.

The second part is "A Dance of the Nations," in which black and white faces mingle with the most cheerful disregard of the color line or of the demands of national consistency. Here the rapidly-changing pictures, each following a moment of stage darkness, show us a bullfight grouping in the Madrid arena; an Indian village on the Columbian River; a Scottish sunset on the hills of Ayrshire; a battleship scene with a drop portrait of Admiral Dewey which—so soon we are forgot!—didn't provoke the faintest applause, and the "Valley of the Spooks," and the performance terminates with a Southern plantation scene, a sort of cakewalk and a medley of familiar negro ballads. There are some excellent specialties introduced in this part, while, as in the first, things are kept moving so swiftly that there's no occasion for complaint as to lack of action.

Next Thursday evening the Arab patrol of the local Moolah Temple of the Shriners' organization will assist in the Field performance by giving their famous lightning drill.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER AT THE GARRICK.

Mrs. Leslie Carter begins a two weeks' engagement at the Garrick this evening, the bill for this week being the powerful Belasco-Long tragedy, "Adrea," which has scored so pronounced a success in Eastern cities. Mrs. Carter has won increased fame in the title role and it is said to be the strongest creation of her entire career.

RICHARD MANSFIELD AT THE OLYMPIC.

Mr. Richard Mansfield begins a week's engagement at the Olympic this evening, the opening bill being "The Scarlet Letter." The offerings for the rest of the week are: Tuesday evening, "King Richard III;" Wednesday, "Beau Brummel;" Thursday, "Don Carlos," for the first time in St. Louis; Friday, "A Parisian Romance;" "Saturday matinee, "The Scarlet Letter," and Saturday evening, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

THREE FUNNY MEN OF A GOOD KIND.

At the Grand two big audiences were entertained yesterday by three comedians, Bickel, Watson and Wrothe, in the new musical comedy, "Tom, Dick and Harry," and seemed to enjoy themselves very much indeed. It's a play in which the trio of leading characters become entangled in all sorts of funny predicaments, and their efforts toward extrication, successful at last, keep the house in roars of laughter. Action is swift and the lyrics introduced during the course of the performance are catchy and tuneful. The production is well staged and the three stars are supported by a good company, including a well-balanced chorus.

SAVED FROM THE CURSE OF DRINK.

A helpful story of the reclamation of a man fallen through the curse of drink is told in "A Millionaire Tramp," which began its week's engagement at the Imperial yesterday afternoon and evening. The scenes are laid in a little Indiana village, and the character types presented are true to their environment and well portrayed by the company of which Harry Todd and Jennie McAlpine are at the head. The four stage settings, showing the village church, the exterior and interior of the "opera house," and the office of the "city hotel" are faithful pictures. There is an effective mingling of comedy, pathos and melodrama in the play, and it seemed to create a favorable impression.

HERE, TOO, DO STRONG LIQUORS FIGURE.

Also is the evil of strong liquors the theme of the melodrama, "Man's Enemy," which played to two big houses at Havlin's yesterday afternoon and evening. The story is rich in heart interest, and has many thrilling climaxes, yet there is a plenty of comedy throughout, and a happy ending, which sends the audience away in a pleasant state of mind. The company is well cast and the production is staged with careful attention to details of scenery, costumes, light and color effects.

THE COLUMBIA'S NEW BILL.

The Columbia's new bill, which will be put on this afternoon, has the American soprano, Miss Mabel McKinley, for its star attraction. Among other features are Patrice, the popular little comedienne; Clayton Kennedy and Mattie Rooney in a comedy sketch; Eleanor Falk, singing and dancing comedienne; Wormwood's monkeys; Al Carleton, monologist; Cameron and Flanagan, "the kid glove kidders," and Dixon and Fields, in a dialect act.

CLOSE OF THE GERMAN DRAMATIC SEASON.

The German Stock Company closed their season at the Odeon last night with the comedy, "Der Blinde Passagier" (The Blind Passenger), the performance being for the benefit of the company's two directors, Messrs. Heinemann and Welb. The house was filled and an excellent performance was given. The German dramatic season has been one of unusual distinction from the artistic viewpoint and it is hoped that the Heinemann-Welb players will return next year.

A movement to this end is already under way, and Judge Leo Rassieur spoke in its behalf during the intermission at the Odeon last night, urging St. Louisans to subscribe for the stock of the German Theater Realty Co., which is organized to provide a permanent home for German drama in this city. Among those who have already subscribed are: F. P. Brockmann, G. W. Garrels, A. C. L. Haase, Henry Heil, Edward L. Preetorius, Leo Rassieur, Gustave Riesmeyer, Louis Schaefer, Otto F. Stifel, Frank Tombridge, Edward Westen, R. Wintermann, J. B. Woestmann, Hulda Duestrow and John Schroers, each for 100 shares of stock, at $10 a share, and Dr. A. Siebert, Carl Schreiner, A. G. Burow and Gustav Cramer, for 10 shares each, these subscriptions making a total of $15,400.

BURLESQUE AND TRAINED ANIMALS.

The Avenue Girls Burlesque Company began a week's engagement at the Standard Theater yesterday afternoon and evening. The entertainment includes a one-act comedy, "A Trip to Bohemia," and an olio of bright specialties, of which Mlle. Luba de Sarema and her big trouple of trained animals are the feature.

TWO COMEDIETTAS AND BRIGHT SPECIALTY.

To the Gayety came the Parisian Widows yesterday, giving a matinee and evening performance as the opening of their week's engagement. The bill begins and ends with a comedietta, both being bright satires on current New York dramatic successes, and the olio, which includes the Three Musical Keltons, the Sisters Valmore, Owley and Randall, Honan and Kearney and funny Ben Welch, is full of entertaining features.

AT FOREST PARK HIGHLANDS.

The crowd that went to Forest Park Highlands yesterday afternoon and night would have made a good day's attendance at the World's Fair. Up to 6 o'clock over 30,000 people had taxed the capacity of the Transit company. The night amusement seekers were even greater in number. During the afternoon Sig. Rosati directed a secred concert of his big band, in memory of the San Francisco holocaust. Among the numbers were solos by Miss Nellie Turnwall and the Lucier sextet. At Hale's Tours, graphis motion pictures were shown of all the places of interest in the doomed city. In the vaudeville theater "Ameta," the Parisian mirror dancer, proved quite an innovation. She danced in shimmering silk costume that took up the entire stage. Brilliant light effects and the reflecting facets made a novelty of the specialty that was indeed refreshing. Fisher and Johnson, bicyclists, did a number of new and daring tricks. Alf Holt, Cull and Johnson, Harry Sours and company and Matinettie and Sylvester were also very good in their presentations.

"Both Phones." "26 Years in the Business."

What would you do if suddenly $15,000,000 were given to you?

A POOR American girl forced by circumstances into uncongenial work among unpleasant people suddenly falls heir to FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS. That is a situation presented by Robert Barr in the first of the $150,000 series of new novels, "A Rock in the Baltic," which will begin in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

What would you do with this money if it were given to you?

The Post-Dispatch will print answers to the above question from its readers. Letters limited to 150 words.

Facetious?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Fifteen millions! Hully gee! Well, I'd buy a bunch of happy clothes and a meal ticket for myself; surprise Mrs. W. with a week's room rent, send one million to "Anybody's" magazine, to push the work of educating people as to what sort of bug is biting them; then I would immediately divide the balance among the Beef Trust, the Sugar Trust, the Coal Trust and Standard Oil. They'd get it anyway, eventually.

F. L. C.

Not a "Coll Oil Johnny."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

At 3 per cent, which is a safe interest, the income on $15,000,000 would be $450,000 a year. The question, therefore, is how would I dispose of $450,000 a year? Any person who disposes of his principal, let me say in passing, is a mere "Coal Oil Johnny."

After assigning a proper part of the yearly $450,000 to such of my relatives as I love and to some of my close friends:

1. I should marry a young person I know and have an unlimited number of children.

2. I should travel, by yacht and automobile, taking with me my wife and children and studying what in all lands and ages man has done best in architectude, literature, poetry, painting, tapestry, sculpture, pottery, bookbinding and furnishing, and what of beauty in mountain and water Nature has to offer.

3. I should collect books, pictures and other works of art.

4. I should build a large and beautiful home in one of the St. Louis places, with a summer home in the North and a winter home in the South and a country place in the country. Living there, I should try to produce some work in English literature that might, by becoming a classic, embalm the memory of my name.

I would not build libraries, erect Y. M. C. A. buildings, reform spelling, endow professorships or universities or actresses, establish art museums, subscribe to opera companies or editions de luxe, nor promote dog shows, cat shows or automobile shows.

In fact, I would not live much differently from the way I live now.

STRAUBTROCKEN.

Make Kinsmen Comfortable.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If I had $15,000,000 I would in the first place give all my poor relations enough to live on comfortably; then I would spend about $50,000 for a house and another $50,000 in furnishing it; then I would take my family and two or three congenial friends and travel for about three years in fine style, which I estimate would cost about $20,000. I would have spent by this time about half a million. I would then start to give away about $7,500,000 in relieving distress, poverty and suffering. I would devote so many hours each day to this work. I would build free hospitals, and establish homes for aged and indigent people.

A. I. R. CASTLE.

A Corporate Brotherhood.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"What would I do with $15,000,000 suddenly showered upon me?" H'm—well, to begin with, I would feel some consolation for not having amassed this fortune myself.

I would invest it so as to be of great benefit to the greatest number of people. I would gather together a number of families—hard-working fathers, sacrificing mothers and ignorant children and form a "corporation." In this organization we would not work each other, but for and in harmony with each other. Each man would get a chance to earn a comfortable living for himself and family without depriving anyone else of the same privilege. Every person would obtain a good, wholesome education without neglecting his physical condition, simply by devoting an equal portion of the day to work and study under able instructors.

This I am sure would make the doctrines of Brotherly Love practical, and perhaps some of our multi-millionaires would employ some of their surplus millions in furthering such plans.

COUNTERFEIT COINS FOUND IN GRAVE

In Coffin With Body of Ozark Recluse Who Died Years Ago.

Lee T. Philpot, secret service agent, returned Monday from Douglas County, Missouri, with $64.50 in counterfeit coins which were found in the grave of John Keenan, who was buried 15 years ago in the county near Arden.

Relatives of Keenan exhumed the body several weeks ago, wishing to rebury it in California. In the casket they found the counterfeit coins. They were given to a neighboring farmer, E. H. Quick, who gave them to a merchant in Arden the next time he went to town. The merchant immediately notified the Government authorities.

Philpot was unable to find any counterfeiting tools in the old cabin occupied by Keenan and his son, but it is supposed that the money was buried with the body to destroy all evidence. It was learned that Keenan lived the life of a recluse with his son in a wild part of the county in the foothills of the Ozarks. Keenan and his son died about the same time.

The coins are made chiefly of block tin. There are 18 counterfeit dollars, 35 half dollars and 16 quarters.

HEROIC STATUE OF JOLIET WHICH SUDDENLY CRUMBLED

HOW MISS AMHURST HAS SPENT $15,000,000

An Entirely Unique Fashion of Disposing of a Legacy Devised by This Beautiful Heroine of a Charming Romance.

It is a safe guess you would not use an unexpected inheritance of $15,000,000 as did Dorothy Amhurst, and it is an equally safe supposition that in one thousand guesses you could not hit upon the utterly unique way she spent the money. No, it was not for charity, or eccentricity, or to buy a foreign husband, or a title or land or house, or even jewelry, but for something such as no other woman, since the world began, ever bought. Guess?

Here is another poser—Lieut. Drummond of the British cruiser "Consternation" used a desert rock in the Baltic as a target for a new naval gun. The rock sent back at once a cannon shot that nearly sank the cruiser. What was on that rock? It was uncharted, unnamed in the category of fortified spots. How then could it blaze away at passing ships and with up-to-date gunnery?

These are two of the many mysteries that render so delightful Robert Barr's newest and most stirring romance, "A Rock in the Baltic," which begins in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. Robert Barr is the foremost living exponent of the fiction of action. In "A Rock in the Baltic" he has written a story that holds the reader spellbound from start to finish.

His Heroine, lovely Dorothy Amhurst, is the best, most charming type of modern American girl, sweet, lovable, altogether winsome. The kind of girl every man wants to meet, and that one man in a million does meet. Allan Drummond, the hero, is a splendid, manly chap, with a faculty for getting into and out of the most thrilling sort of adventures.

"A Rock in the Baltic" is one of the dozen new novels by famous modern writers, which comprise the Sunday Post-Dispatch's great $150,000 series of novels which are to be issued monthly. It is the highest priced and best set of novels ever offered to the reading public. Each will appear serially in the Sunday Post-Dispatch before being brought out in book form. Send in your orders early to your newsdealer in order to make certain of getting a copy. Publication commences next Sunday.

SECOND HUSBAND WOULD NOT WORK

Wife Gets Divorce From Man Who Wanted to Spend Her Money.

Mrs. Stacia Sumner of 4446 Cook avenue, attired in a white silk Princess skirt and pink waist with elbow sleeves, testified Monday in Judge Foster's court in her suit for divorce from Dell E. Sumner that she had lived with her husband less than a month, and that their disagreements arose from his unwillingness to work and eagerness to spend her money.

The suit went by default. Mrs. Sumner's witnesses were Mrs. R. S. McDonald of Keokuk, Io., who wore Alice blue and many diamonds, and Mrs. Sumner's daughter, Miss May Ames, 20 years old, who wore shimmering green.

Mr. Ames, the first husband of the plaintiff, left her a fortune in jewels and bonds, she said on the stand, which her second husband seemed to think it is his sole duty to dissipate. He refused to work, she testified, stood at street corners, ordered numberless suits of clothes, $4 shirts and expensive gloves, all of which he had charged to her, and even sent her his doctor's and dentist's bills.

On the occasion of a trip to Keokuk to visit Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Sumner said, her husband refused to return to St. Louis with her, and would not surrender the transportation, so that she had to buy a new ticket. She testified that he rifled her purse and spent what he got in a fling in Chicago and New York.

Mrs. McDonald and Miss Ames corroborated this testimony. Mrs. Sumner is 42. She married the second time Dec. 16, 1904, and separated from her husband Jan. 8, 1905. They were wedded in Franklin County, Mo.

DIVORCE FOR ELOPER.

Mrs. Anna Gladon of 3228 Lucas avenue, testifying in Judge Foster's court Monday in her suit for divorce from John A. Gladon, said that she eloped when 16 years old and that after the first two weeks her husband forced her to support him until they separated.

On one occasion, Mrs. Gladon said, when she refused to go to work unless her husband also worked, he threatened her with a revolver. The couple was married by Justice Haughton July 15, 1901, and separated May 27, 1906. Gladon did not defend the suit and it went by default. Mrs. Gladon's maiden name, Coffin, was restored.

Five Dice Players Fined.

John Schneider, 3571 South Broadway; Albert Weber, 3513 Lemp avenue; Charles Kazenwalder, 3300 South Broadway; John Zimmermann, 3383 South Broadway and Joseph Peters, 2803 South Broadway, were fined $5 each Monday morning by Judge Kleiber of the Wyoming Street Police Court for "shooting craps" in a vacant lot at 3302 Kosciusko street by candle light. The arrest was made by Patrolmen Schermen, Maroney and Tazdernick of the Second District. One youth escaped and 40 cents and a pair of dice were found by the officers.

MANSFIELD TO LECTURE.

Address at Woman's Club Wednesday Afternoon.

Much interest is being manifested in the lecture to be given Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Richard Mansfield for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers.

It is to be held in the handsome ballroom of the Woman's Club, under the auspices of the Mary Institute Alumnae Association.

It will be open to the public, however, and will be the first opportunity many persons will have to see Mr. Mansfield off the stage as he appears in real life, and also the first chance many have had to view the Woman's Club and its much-talked-of ballroom.

Tickets, which are $1.50 apiece, can be had of Miss B. R. Skinker, 4263 McPherson avenue, and at the club house, 3821 Washington boulevard.

Negro to Hang June 11.

Judge Kinsey Monday sentenced John King, a negro, to be hanged June 11. He was convicted of shooting and killing Hattie Douglas, a negress, at Twenty-third and Papin streets, Nov. 28. Jealousy caused the crime.

CROWD SEES FALL OF HEROIC STATUE

Great Equestrian Figure of Joliet in O'Fallon Park Broken in Bits.

A pile of white dust and a few fragments of staff are all that remain of the heroic statue of Joliet which has taken out of the "main picture" at the World's Fair and set up at the entrance to O'Fallon Park at Florissant and Harris avenues.

Without a warning creak the great equestrian image tottered and fell from its base Sunday afternoon in view of hundreds of pleasure-seekers in the park.

The figure, 25 feet high and 15 feet long, crashed to the ground. For an instant the place where it had stood was hidden from the spectators by a white cloud. Then, when the air cleared, it was seen that the magnificent work of art was shattered beyond all hope of repair.

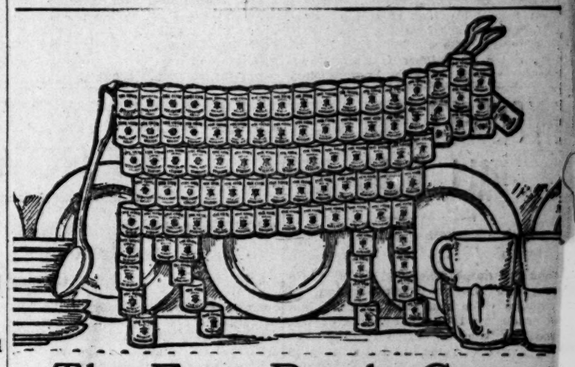

The work of installing it at the entrance to the park was completed only three days ago at an expense to the city of nearly $2000. It had been placed in a commanding position on a grass-covered mound surrounded by a circular wall of granitoid, the entire plot being 40 feet in diameter. Landscape gardeners were to have gone to work Monday morning laying out ornamental flower beds around the statue.

When the statue was taken from the World's Fair residents of the O'Fallon Park district were told by Sculptor Carl Bitter that it would last at least 1 years.

Writ Against Assessor.

A writ of quo warranto was issued by the Supreme Court at Jefferson City Monday on application of the Attorney General, who seeks to oust William Russell, a Township Assessor in Cass County. Cass was one of the counties affected by the recent township organization ruling of the Supreme Court. Gov. Folk has appointed R. S. Wooldridge Assessor of Cass County, and Russell has refused to turn over the office to him. Russell contends he is not affected by the ruling.

POWELL, SUSPENDED, CANNOT BE FOUND

Big Pitcher of the Ravens Fails to Join His Club on Trip to Cleveland—Left Residence Saturday Night and Has Not Been Seen Since.

Pitcher Powell failed to report for duty with the Raven team for the journey to Cleveland on Sunday night. No explanation was given of his absence. Hence Manager McAleer has suspended him for failure to report for duty and for not maintaining himself in condition to play baseball.

At his residence, 3122 North Twelfth street, where Powell boards with his father-in-law, Patrick O'Connor, father of Catcher O'Connor, it was stated that the pitcher had not been seen since Saturday night.

Powell was not on the bench with his team on Sunday. As he had pitched on Saturday this absence caused no comment.

It seems that after losing his game on Saturday, largely through the fault of being overfleshy, Powell, who has been taking the best of care of himself, went to his boarding house. He told his wife, who was Miss Nora O'Connor, sister of Catcher O'Connor, that he wanted to resume housekeeping. Mrs. Powell said she would think it over. The pitcher than told her that she had best make up her mind in a hurry and let him know when she got ready. He left then and had not returned home to Monday morning.

Powell, who has put on a great deal of flesh in recent years, has always been regarded as a good fellow, who would take a drink now and then. This spring, however, he has been extremely abstemious and has been working hard to reduce flesh. He won one league game and lost another, largely through inability to field bunts. His adiposity hampered him a great deal.

Powell is a young man and a great natural pitcher. His honest, brusque, straight-forward demeanor has endeared him to all who know him.

Mrs. Powell said this morning that she had no idea her Jack was angry or put out. She added that as soon as he came home he could have his little old housekeeping and there would not be anything more said about it.

FORSHAW REPORTS CONDITION FINE

St. Louis Aspirant for Marathonic Honors Writes He Is Fit.

Joe Forshaw, the St. Louis distance runner, who is now in Athens, Greece, to compete in the great Marathon race, writes to his father, Joseph Forshaw of the city, that he is in excellent condition for the race. He made the long ocean trip without seasickness and says that the Hellenic climate has agreed excellently with him thus far.

Men who know long distance running say that Forshaw's hardest competition will come from the English runners, and that he need not fear his American teammates, Frank and Spring.

It is not improbable, however, that the winner will turn up in one of the Greek runners, who have been practicing assiduously for the Marathon the past year.

Americans will never forget the Marathon run at the first Olympic revival in Athens in 1896. Tommy Burke, the American runner, ran away from all his competitors for 15 miles and was then seized with a cramp and was compelled to withdraw from the race. S. Louis, a Greek peasant, won. He covered the 24 miles and 1500 yards in 2h. 55m. 20s.

COLEMAN WINS FROM SCHILLING

Crack Wrestler of the Middle-Weights Defeats Bellevillian in Mixed Match.

Frank Coleman, the champion middleweight wrestler of America, was very busy during the past week. On Thursday night, at Belleville, Ill., he won from F. B. Schilling, the Belleville giant. Coleman took the first fall at catch-as-catch-can. The second, a Graeco-Roman bout, was won by Schilling. Coleman, who had won the first fall in the fastest time, selected catch-as-catch-can for the third style, and threw Schilling handily.

Sunday night, Coleman wrestled Freddie Doerr, the Missouri lightweight champion, an exhibition bout at Mascoutah, Ill. At its conclusion he issued a defi to throw any man in Illinois in 15 minutes. Schilling, who was present, accepted the challenge, succumbing to Coleman after 12 minutes and 20 seconds of hard work. Coleman praised his adversary highly after the bout and said that he was a big, powerful fellow who, with a little more training and seasoning, would make a difficult man to beat.

College Collations

Saturday's baseball contests were notable for the surprising reversal of form and deterioration in play of the nines of St. Louis University and McKinley High School by St. Charles Academy and Yeatman High School. Both teams were expected to win their games without trouble. St. Louis University was minus the services of Robinson, her hardest hitter, and Young, the great Blue and White pitcher. Notwithstanding this handicap there was no excuse for the miserable exhibition and slow play of the Blue and White. Yeatman deserved to win her game and did so, despite the fact that McKinley fought bitterly for the verdict.

Many spectators of the St. Louis U.-St. Charles game wondered why Graham, the center fielder of the soldier boys, had crescents of dark paint daubed beneath his eyes. The practice obtains once in a while among professional ball players who are guarding a sun field, and is an old trick of the Indians, who claim that it offsets the effect of the glare of the sun.

Howe and Kenney, the St. Louis University players, are leading their classes at the Jesuits medical school, and Rozier, a member of last year's football team, will graduate with the honors of the class of '06 in medicine.

The Washington University-Country Club game was postponed last Saturday until May 26, in order to give the club men an opportunity to play their annual bachelors' and benedicts game.

The work of young Grover of Washington in the 50-yard invitation at the M. A. C. indoor meet at the Jai Alai Building was easily the feature of the tournament. Apparently he is the fastest man in the State since the days of Louis Holland.

O. A. Springe of McKinley is beginning to attract unusual attention as a weight thrower. His victory in the interscholastic 12-pound shot event and his second in the 16-pound shot handicap demonstrated that he is the cleverest boy with the weights at school this year.

Otto Schwarz made his debut as a track performer Saturday night in the 45-yards low hurdle. His third in this event was a creditable effort.

Washington students claim that Grover has made ten flat in practice repeatedly.

The showing of the Belleville, East St. Louis and Granite City High School boys at the indoor meet proves that these schools have excellent material that needs only a chance for development and opportunities for participation in athletics to compare favorably with the best of the local boys.

M. L. Croch of Missouri State, who divided honors with Ben Robinson and W. J. Schneider of St. Louis U., looked like another Tom Thumb when he toed the mark with the Blue and White giants.

Amateur Amenities

The St. Louis Browns defeated the A. B. C.'s 19 to 1 at Kuiaze Park Sunday afternoon. The game was the inaugural one of the season for Chris Von der Ahe's pets and "der Boss President" said in his address before the game began that he intends to make the team what the old Browns were, world-beaters. "Not world-beating professionals," said Cairs, "but world-beaters in the semi-professional ranks." The team is an excellent one and is already scheduled to play the best teams in the West. To a elder, and the fielder errs, does uniforms of the same color and design that the old four-time winners wore when away from home. On the bosom of the shirts are the words "St. Louis Browns."

The Spaulding Juniors defeated the Iroquois Saturday, in a pretty and interesting game, by the score of 10 to 7. The teams were evenly matched and fought to the finish. The great pitching of Quinlivin and the batting of Harrington, both of the winners, were the features of the game.

SHERIDAN THE STAR OF OLYMPIC WEEK

Great Allround Athlete Scored More Than One-Half of the Total Points Tallied by the American Team, Which Leads All Others by Wide Margin.

ATHENS, April 30.—The feature of the week at the Olympic games undoubtedly was the brilliant record made by the American athletes. Martin J. Sheridan of the Irish-American A. C. especially distinguished himself. He won 16 points in the games, five for the shot-put, five for throwing the discus, three for the standing broad jump and three for putting the stone; and he will score probably in the ancient Greek discus and the standing high jump, as well as in the hurdles, if his leg holds out. The condition of his leg is not good, however, and for that reason he retired in the Penthathon series of contests today.

The Americans are greatly impressed by the gathering. They are pleased with the Greeks, civilians and officials, who have been most kind in their treatment.

The keenness of the people for the sports is illustrated by the fact that although Thursday there were only two events inside the stadium—throwing the javelin and weight lifting—35,000 spectators were in attendance.

A feature of the meeting even more pleasant than the general good humor has been the attitude of King George and the princes and princesses, whose simple and kindly manner has gone straight to the hearts of all the visitors. The King and the princes, attired in inconspicuous uniforms, have mingled with the crowd, shaking hands and chatting with many.

Saturday was spent in dealing with the overflow from yesterday's events, which dragged out at great length. The events were the penthalum series, consisting of five games, each competitor taking part in all five. These included the 192-meter run, standing long jump, the classical throwing of the discus, javelin throwing and Graeco-Roman wrestling. The penthalum series excited little interest and ended Saturday afternoon with some wrestling between men not versed in the game. The results of this series follows:

First, the Swede, Melander; second, Mudin, Hungarian; third, Lemming, Swede.

The jury's award in the diving contest proved a surprise. It was generally believed that the Englishman, Smyrk's, would take first prize, but he was placed seventeenth, the Germans, Walz and Hoffmann, being given first and second respectively.

The team swimming event aroused considerable excitement. The Hungarian, Hamy, won the 100-meters in 1m. 52 2-5s., record time, which was only given out after considerable argument.

A great crowd gathered Saturday to watch the final shooting events on the arid plain of Callithea, some distance from Athens. The Frenchman, Lecocq, won the 30 yards open revolver event with a score of 250, Standelhofen, Swiss, taking the open rifle with a score of 241.

RIPPLES of the Ring

Kid Herman will be Andy Bezenah's opponent at an early date.

Joe Gans certainly started something in more ways than one when he began talking about the numerous fakes and fakers, himself included, on the Pacific Coast. His talk incited Frank Carillo, the warm friend of Aurelio Herrera, to say that he could prove that dope was administered to Herrera in the Mexican's bout with McGovern.

Johnny Corbett is bewailing his hard luck. He says that after bringing out Young Corbett the latter threw him over just as he became a champion, and now when he has another champion in Rube Smith, he can find no one to meet the Denver boy.

An amateur boxing and wrestling tournament will be held by the Olympic Athletic Association at Lemp's Park Tuesday night.

The Canadian boxing championships are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Toronto, Canada.

For Newsboys' Benefit.

The Junior Co-Operative Association, of which James Eads How is president, is preparing to give a newsboys' entertainment Saturday evening, May 5, probably at the Exposition Hall, for the benefit of the San Francisco newsboys.

The use of the spitball is a filthy and disgusting habit and should be prohibited. It is said that in some cases the sphere is so slavered with spittle that the expectorant is dashed in the faces of the batter and catcher when the ball is hit. If this is the truth the pitcher might as well stick to the good old chew of tobacco, walk up and spit in the batter's eyes. It is true that the ball is hard to hit—it slips off the bat—but it seems that if hitters can tell when it is coming and bunt it well infielders have no chance to make it hurried throw with accuracy. Wallace and Spencer could not hit each other when the shortstop was covering in for a return to the plate, and O'Brien could not snap a throw of 20 yards with accuracy. Hartzell, too, had his troubles.

MANY PROS. HAVE BEEN REINSTATED

A. A. U. Readmits Several Money-Getting Baseball Players to Its Ranks.

As the result of the resolution of the Western Amateur Athletic Union to issue cards to local ballplayers who have not committed flagrant acts of professionalism and who have not sought to make their living by baseball, St. Louis devotes of amateur baseball are sure to enjoy a fine season of baseball exhibitions.

It was learned Monday that Lonnie Fitzporter is not the only semi-professional to be admitted to the amateur ranks, and that Billy Steinwender and Frank Davidson will also be issued cards entitling them to the privileges of amateurs.

Steinwender is the former Princeton second baseman, who captained the Tigers in 1900. Dutch Meier, the St. Louis boy now with Pittsburg, played at short for the Princeton team the same year. Steinwender has never played professional ball, but his knowledge of the game was so great that he was prevailed upon to coach several college teams, and for this he was professionalized. He will play with the Triple A League Saturday afternoons.

Frank Davidson was a member of one of the Trolley League teams, and is considered one of the best allround players in the city. He will play with the same organization as Steinwender.

THE S.S.S. STANDARD TONIC

The ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed, and the method of combining and preparing them so that they gently and pleasantly build up and strengthen every part of the body, make it the ideal tonic for a disordered condition of the system. Every one feels the need of a tonic sometimes. The system seems to get "out of gear," the appetite becomes fickle, the energies are depressed, sleep is not restful or refreshing, and the entire body has a nervous, worn-out feeling. When the system is in this depleted, run-down condition it must be aided by a tonic, and S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the standard. Being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their gentle action as well as their invigorating effect on the system, it will not disagreeably affect any of the delicate members or tissues as do most of the so-called tonics on the market which contain potash or some other harmful mineral ingredient. These derange the stomach and digestion, unfavorably affect the bowels or otherwise damage the health. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion, improves the appetite, produces refreshing sleep, rids the body of that tired, run-down feeling, and supplies tone and vigor to the entire system. It reestablishes the healthy circulation of the blood, acts more promptly and gives better and more lasting results than any other tonic, and because of its vegetable purity is an absolutely safe medicine for young or old. S. S. S. acts admirably in cases of dyspepsia, indigestion and other stomach troubles, and after using it that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, dizziness or drowsiness, after eating, are no longer felt. Not only is S. S. S. the greatest of all tonics but possesses purifying and alterative properties, and if there is a taint in the blood it will promptly remove every trace and restore perfect health. In selecting your tonic for this year do not experiment but get S. S. S., the recognized standard.

SUNDAY ACTIVITY AT ROWING CLUBS

Old Timers Afloat at the Westerns—Joachim and His New Shell —Dr. Stockhoff Caulking Up—Preparations for the Coming Season.

Great activity, principally in the way of outfitting and preparing for the season, was discernible about the rowing organizations Sunday. True, some of the enthusiasm manifested by the groups standing about the various club houses concerned tales of glowing water triumphs in the past, but this is a usual sign of the opening of every season. Sunday was an ideal day for excursions of the barges, fours, doubles and singles. The temperature on the Mississippi was about 75, Old Sol was drowning the river in a flood of sunshine. The water was just spirited and choppy enough to make theh rowing delightful.

The Centurys ran out two barges and a double. Dr. Stockhoff was industriously calking the launch that is to be used this year in coaching the crews.

The Mound Citys, the club that furnished so many winners at the last regatta, sending out a senior four and a barge crew. The Mound City Club last year was the most aggressive of any of the local organizations, and has its boathouse this season crowded with new shells, but are having a hard time getting scullers.

The St. Louis Club is still situated at its old location, but is a rowing organization for social features only as far as evincing interest in the river pastime was concerned Sunday. May be it was too hot.

At the Westerns there was something doing. Two barges, a four and Joachim, the champion sculler of the club, were out on the water, and finding they could stand it no longer, those old water dogs, Mueller, Fisher, Schott, Lamp, Barry and Dummerth jumped into a barge with young Galbreath as coxswain and rowed up and down the river as long as their poor wind would allow them to stand the pace.

With the exception of Galbreath these men are veterans and have done much for rowing in St. Louis, Lamp and Dummerth being members of the 1901 Western senior four crew that went to Philadelphia and won first prize from the crack Vespers. It was a treat for young eyes to see these men glide up the river, paced by Joachim in his new 28-pound Davy shell, and then down again.

Funny were admonitions they hand out to the present wearers of the Western's colors, of advice on how to train. One must do without this and never touch that. Indeed, this wit and wisdom is to be regarded highly, particularly when some of it issued from the mouth of Ferd Koenig, who won the American amateur championship at Saratoga in 1894 from McCaffery and Ryan. Koenig is entitled to respectful attention, but when one remembers that Ferd used to do a whole lot of his preparations for a race in the frolicsome manner of a youth who has just been left money, why his arguments lose some of their weight. And then he gets mad, as he did Sunday, and insists that he is but 34 years of age and is going to row this year. Cities that Hanlon made his best time at 41, and that Beach, the great Australian, was never in a boat until he was 34, and a great many things. Too bad that more St. Louis oarsmen have not the spirit of Ferd Koenig, who was a real champion.

Joachim Enthusiastic.

John Joachim, the fastest sculler in the local harbor, has a new shell, and in it he sculled three and one-half miles Sunday morning. The boat was made by Davy of Cambridgeport, Conn., along special lines devised by Joachim. The big fellow is delighted with it. There is no doubt but that it is a fast boat. It has a peculiar groove in it that makes the shell peculiarly succeptible to offsetting the influence and tendency of the boat to plunge the boat down, consequently it rests or rather floats like a feather on the top of the water.

Joachim says there is fully 20 seconds a mile difference between the new boat and the shell he pulled through the waters of Creve Coeur last July. Suit, a sculler with a new boat, designed after his own specifications is prone to believe it the best in the world.

SALIVA UNDOES RAVENS, WEARINESS CARDINALS

Infielders Could Not Handle Slathered Ball Pitched by Howell and Wild Throws Lost the Game—Putnam Poorly Supported by Team at League Park.

Wild throws, the natural addenda of the disgusting habit of slavering the baseball with saliva, practiced by some pitchers, were largely, if not entirely, responsible for the loss of Sunday's baseball game by the Ravens to the Cleveland Club, at American League Sportsman's Park. Score, 10-3.

When a reliable player like Wallace makes six or seven wild throws in a few innings, and when a catcher like Spencer, who is the best thrower in the world, cannot hit a baseman, something must be wrong. And something was wrong.

Howell is a notorious spitball pitcher. Like others of his ilk, he uses a salivant. He does not merely spit on his finger tips or moisten a part of the ball. He, to use a vulgarism—it is a nasty business, anyhow—fairly slobbers and "glaums" the entire ball with a greasy spittle. The result of all this is the sphere might as well be soaped. It slips off the bat if the hitter touches it and hits are hard to get. However, if the batter does hit it, the infielders find it extraordinarily a matter of extreme difficulty to throw it accurately. It picks up enough dust on its way to make mud. So when the infielder gets it the sphere might as well be greased.

The three runs which Cleveland made in the third inning were all due to wild throws. Not a real hit was made in this session. Wild throws also cut a large figure in the four runs scored by the Frenchmen in the sixth inning. In fact, not one of Cleveland's 10 runs resulted from straight hitting, base running and baseball.

Upon the other hand it must be admitted that Townsend pitched a capital game for Cleveland and was properly hard to hit. He had the best speed, change of pace and curve seen at Sportsman's Park this season. It was not until he had the game in hand and let down that the Ravens hit him at all. Six of the seven Ravens' hits came after the sixth inning. Thus it came about that the famous and filthy spitball, the main reliance of the hard-working Howell, was his undoing and that the pet pitcher of McAleer was drowned in the slime of his own creation.

It did not seem that the hustling Cardinals, of whose fermentative baseball abroad we have been reading such lurid tales, supported Pitcher Putnam with any great zeal in their game against the Chicago Spuds at League Park yesterday. The final score was 4 to 2 in favor of the visitors.

It may have been that the Cardinals were weary of their long ride from Pittsburg Saturday night and Sunday morning. Be that as it may the inertia displayed by the fielders was terrifying. Neither the long drives of Chance and Steinfeldt, which scored the runs, should have gone for more than singles.

The Chicago batters displayed a familiarity with what the pitcher was going to throw that was most amazing. The Cubs must have a sign reader somewhere.

After Putnam had been thrown down for four innings McCloskey took him out and substituted Egan and Holmes. Thereafter the Cubs secured but one hit.

Even with a handicap of four runs against them the Cardinals might have won had they not been so unfortunate as to have five double plays made against them in the last six innings. Several times when a hit would have placed another complexion on matters, it was not forthcoming, the batter drove the ball into a double play.

The Cardinal team is hitting well. The men meet the ball much harder and with more steam and zest than the Ravens have been showing.

Their zeal with the bat and the support accorded Eagan differed very much from the lackadaisical assistance given Putman.

HOT Bingles From the Bat

Jones is hitting .273; Nordyke, .100.

Himes is sticking at an average of .298.

The New York Highlanders have released Dave Fultz to the Athletics in exchange for Danny Hoffman.

George Stone is leading all the hitters of the American League, according to the averages issued. His batting average, including Sunday's game, is .436.

It is said that McGinnity is as cool and deliberate as ever, but has lost some of his speed.

Mike Grady has not yet got his eye on the ball. The best he has done thus far is .182.

President Soden of the Beaneaters says that if his team had three or four first-class players it would be right up among the leaders.

Dick Padden is said to be playing great ball for St. Paul, but marring his work by kicking.

were inclined to guy Spencer, Wallace and O'Brien for wild throws, due to Howell's lathering the ball with saliva. It was not the fault of the fielders.

It is a sad commentary upon the honesty of baseball club owners that the Associated Press has refused to carry their statements of attendances at games because such statements have been wofully false. And this is a case where the truth would do as well as a lie, but wherein men had rather lie.

Townsend of Cleveland pitched the best ball seen in St. Louis this season. He had everything.

St. Louis to New York and Boston.

Trains leave every day via Big Four, 8.17 a. m., 12 noon, 1 p. m., 11:25 p. m. City Ticket office, Broadway and Chestnut.

Stone has a bad position and is often fooled by the pitcher, but his fine eye and great strength and weight of bat enable him to pickle them.

Stone's great strength and luck make him a hitter. He broke his back swinging at a drop curve. He was so badly deceived by the break of the ball that he lost control of the bat with his left hand and swung around with the stick in his right. While the wattle was held in one hand he caught the ball about an inch from the ground and hit it to the bulletin board. It was a wild pitch, but he made a triple off it. His great strength enables him to use a very heavy bat and swing hard with it.

Yankee Girl Wins $15,000,000

Dorothy Amhurst, a beautiful and altogether charming Bar Harbor girl, has just inherited $15,000,000. She is the heroine of Robert Barr's best novel, "A Rock in the Baltic," which will begin in the Sunday Post-Dispatch next Sunday, May 6. Order early or advance orders will have exhausted the edition.

OF Interest to Inquirers

A. R.—If a pitcher is knocked out of the box with the opposing team in the lead, and another one goes in and wins the game, which pitcher gets credit for the victory, the first or second pitcher? The second pitcher.

E. G.—If a man at bat knocks the ball to a fielder, and the fielder errs, does the man get credit for a time at bat? Yes.

P. A.—Please state in what inning Pittsburg made her first hit in the inaugural game April 12. Did the Pirates make a hit before the tenth inning? In the second inning of the opening game Nealon of Pittsburg lifted a fly to Smoot, which the latter was slow in fielding, the drive going for two bases. This was the Pirates' first hit of the game.

Emil Kinst, a Chicagoan, has invented a curved baseball bat, which he believes will become more popular than the ordinary bat.

GIANT FIGHTS SIX POLICEMEN

Powerful Man, After Laying Down to Sing Song, Tackled Policemen.

James Lane, a giant in height and build, is held at the City Hospital for observation, after a mad rampage Sunday night, in which he fought a dozen Union Station attaches and policemen and prevented six attendants at the City Hospital from putting him in the bathtub.

It is thought that Lane is insane—temporarily, at least.

Charles McGee, night watchman at the Union Station, saw Lane in the Midway about 9 o'clock Sunday night. The mountain of a man was striding through the crowd swinging his arms strangely and brushing people aside as he passed along. When McGee saw the man's eyes he decided it was time to do something.

He went up and touched the man on the arm. Lane turned around and frowned at McGee. McGee is nearly six feet in height, but Lane towered over him.

"Well, what do you want?" demanded Lane.

Lay Down and Sang.

"Oh, nothing," said McGee, "I just thought you might be looking for the waiting room. It's right over there," he pointed to the doors of the second-class waiting room.

The giant drew his brows together. Then he said, "Oh, all right. Yes, that's where I want to go," and followed by McGee he made for the waiting room. But instead of sitting down on one of the seats, as McGee suggested when they had left the Midway, Lane suddenly threw himself down on the tile flooring on his back and began singing the Irish prizefighting song, crowded around curiously.

Ben Brown, the train caller, came up, and, after listening, said, "Why, he's singing the Irish prizefighting son, 'Donnely and Copper.'"

Finally McGee said: "Come, that's enough of that. Get up off the floor."

The giant stopped singing and sat up. He looked at McGee a moment, blinking his eyes queerly. Then he suddenly rose to his feet and started for the watchman, swinging his arms like windmills. The crowd in the waiting room was instantly in an uproar and in from the Midway came another crowd that choked the room. Policemen Ward and Trot came in on the run.

Meanwhile McGee had made an effort to dodge the swinging fists of the giant, but he was caught squarely on the right eye and went to the floor, with Lane standing above him.

Overpowered With Difficulty.

It looked as if he meant to do further damage to McGee, but at this instant the two policemen arrived. Ward grabbed Lane by the right wrist. The giant shook him off like a dog does water. Ward came back gamely and tackled Lane around the waist. Officer Trot threw his arms around Lane's neck.

Then began a desperate struggle. The giant swung the two policemen off only to be grabbed by several Union Station attaches who went into the fray with much spirit. It didn't seem as if even then he would be subdued, and the crowd in the room began yelling to the policemen to use their clubs, when one of the attacking party wound himself around Lane's legs and he went to the floor with nearly a dozen men on top of him.

He was quiet enough when lifted into the ambulance, which had been called, and strapped to the seat. But by the time the hospital was reached his fighting blood was up again.

The attendants had no sooner got him into the bathroom than the giant let out a terrific bellow and started his arms going again. The three attendants who were with him in the bathroom were thrown against the walls of the little room. But three other attendants and two young and athletic doctors from the reception room came in and Lane was finally scrubbed, although they couldn't get him into the tub.

He was later strapped to a bed in the observation ward. He gave his address as 1825 McNulty avenue.

DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS

LOCAL SECURITIES ARE VERY QUIET

The Price Range Is Irregular, With Some Issues Lower.

WALL ST. RESPONSIBLE

Decline in the East Has Forced Some Issues on the Market.

The local stock market was very weak today, although the sales were confined to a very few issues. The very severe decline in the Eastern market in the past two weeks has forced the selling of some of the local issues to protect margins, and this is reflected in our prices.

Some minor investment demand was noted in United Railways preferred as the stock looks very attractive at the present price level, and the sales at present represent forced liquidation. The bank and trust list showed prices very irregular and buyers at any level are scarce.

United Railways preferred sold on the downturn at $82 to $81 and the common stock and bonds were left severely alone. Brown Bros. subscriptions were still wanted at $1.12½.

Missouri-Lincoln Trust was lower on sales in very small lots at $134 and $133. The bond list was firm.

Many of the local issues are selling at prices very attractive to the purchaser, and the indications are that as soon as the Wall street market rights itself a strong recovery will take place on the local exchange.

Heir Found to Amhurst Millions

An heir—or rather an heiress—has been found for the $15,000,000 Amhurst fortune. She is Dorothy Amhurst, lovely heroine of Robert Barr's best novel, "A Rock in the Baltic," which will appear serially in the Sunday Post-Dispatch before being issued in book form. The first installment will be printed next Sunday. Order in advance.

Slayer Again Violent.

William Segar, who fatally stabbed John E. Stephenson of 3914 North Eleventh street, his brother-in-law, became violent Sunday for the second time within a week, and was re-transferred to the observation ward of the City Hospital. He wrenched an iron tap five inches thick from a basin in his cell, and concealed it in his shirt.

CALM FOLLOWS THE WALL STREET STORM

Liquidation Spends Its Force and a Strong Recovery Follows.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The stock market opened active and barely steady today, with small changes shown both ways. Some of the specialties reflected pressure, but the early selling was not heavy.

The London market reflected a much better tone on Americans before the local opening and gains ranging from ¼ to 1¼ points were recorded throughout the list. The buying, however, was supposed to represent short covering from this side and market sentiment generally is still badly mixed.

Price Movements.

Prices righted themselves in the second hour, when buying of an influential character entered the Exchange. There was some apprehension as to whether the sheets would go through the clearing house this morning without some difficulty cropping out, especially as the street was full of bear rumors involving certain Stock Exchange houses on Saturday. The clearings this morning, however, passed without trouble and showed the rumors in circulation to be without foundation, and the traders took the buying side temporarily on the announcement. Sentiment in the financial district is apparently not so bearish as last week, and some of the best 350,000 shares. John W. Gates was out with houses on the street were advising purchases in some of the low-priced issues. Lawson was out with a big yarp predicting a panic, boasting of the success of his bear pool and stating that the pool is still short 350,000 shares. John B. Gates was out with an optimistic interview. Better support was apparent in Great Northern and Northern Pacific. London was a moderate buyer on balance.

The Money Market.

Of high and welcome significance was the announcement on Saturday that a large sum of gold had been engaged in Paris for shipment to New York. International bankers are now confident that they can get all the gold that New York needs from the French capital and Amsterdam. Now that the Russian loan is out of the way, European centers are free to fill the demand for the precious metal. The monetary relaxation in Europe since the floatation of the Russian loan has been evidenced in the decline in discounts at Paris, London and Berlin, and the advance in British consols, French rentes and Russians fours. In addition to the ability of New York to secure gold from the other side, the currency movement will soon be seasonably towards this center, and the receipts of gold from the Klondike and Alaska are now coming forward rapidly. The production in these districts is expected to be record breaking this year. All these influences have convinced the highest banking circles that there is no prospects of anything beyond normal interest rates for some time to come, and sight must not be lost of the fact that the contraction in credits in the stock market in too recent liquidation has also helped to clean the monetary atmosphere materially. Money loaned early at 4¼ per cent.

The Closing.

The rally went still further after the noon period, when it became generally known that all limitations had been taken off by the Subtreasury of the deposit of bonds with the Government to secure advances against gold imports. The shorts were the best buyers, but the traders were also adhering to the bull side. There was little news of direct importance bearing on the situation and what was received was of a favorable character. In the last hour a minor realizing movement developed which carried prices off from the top level, but the stock offering was well absorbed and the closing was fairly firm and in all cases sharply higher.

DOWNWARD TREND IN WHEAT MARKET

Heavy World's Shipments and Rain Where Needed Depresses Prices.

OTHER GRAINS STEADY

Trade in Corn and Oats Light Throughout the Session.

The grain market developed an easier tendency today and prices, after opening firm, closed at a slightly lower level.

Trade in all domestic markets was still of a professional character and commission houses report absolutely no outside speculative demand.

Reports of damage to the growing winter crop from hot dry weather are coming in from sections of Illinois and Missouri, but these were offset today by the precipitation of moisture in the territory affected. The trade is also inclined to the belief that the coming Government report in winter wheat will show improved conditions over the estimate of last month.

Local and general cash demands are nothing to enthuse over and millers report little, if any, improvement in the flour trade.

Receipts continue liberal, especially in the Northwest where Duluth and Minneapolis reported 367 cars, against 437 last week, 206 last year and 151 two years ago. Winnipeg received 319 cars today.

Foreign cables were without effect or price and Liverpool closed ⅛d lower on corn. Paris wheat closed ¾@¼c lower and Berlin and Budapest irregular.

The world's shipments overrun the estimates, the figures showing for the week 10,040,000 bu, against 9,256,000 bu last week and 9,328,000 bu last year. Corn shipments were 3,364,000 bu, against 1,990,000 bu last week and 3,330,000 bu last year.

The visible figures showed:

Wheat (decrease)	2,722,000 bu
Corn (decrease)	2,675,000 bu
Oats (decrease)	1,518,000 bu

VISIBLE SUPPLY OF GRAIN.

Wheat today	41,000,000 bu
Last year	28,529,000 bu
Corn today	9,981,000 bu
Last year	3,499,000 bu
Oats today	16,682,000 bu
Last year	13,857,000 bu

VISIBLE SUPPLY GRAIN CHANGES. LAST WEEK.

Wheat (decrease)	2,022,000 bu
Corn (decrease)	794,000 bu
Oats (decrease)	625,000 bu

LAST YEAR.

Wheat (decrease)	1,888,000 bu
Corn (decrease)	1,112,000 bu
Oats (decrease)	814,000 bu

Clearances of wheat and flour were 145,000 bu.

Corn was firm in spite of the easier tendency in wheat. Clearances were 240,000 bu. Oats were quiet.

Primary movement—Receipts wheat, 494,871 bu, against 373,898 bu last year. Corn—568,845 bu, against 216,548 bu last year. Oats—558,017 bu, against 276,697 bu last year.

Shipments—Wheat—483,765 bu, against 414,000 bu last year. Corn—455,958 bu, against 737,000 bu last year. Oats—851,285 bu, against 217,000 bu last year.

St. Louis receipts and shipments—Receipts wheat, 39,265 bu; corn, 136,515 bu; oats, 82,350 bu.

Shipments—Wheat, 57,840 bu; corn, 42,300 bu; oats, 91,040 bu.

HAY—Receipts 666 tons local and 190 tons through; shipments, 385 tons. Quote hay, timothy, choice $15@15.50; No. 1 timothy, $14@14.50; No. 2, $12@12.50; choice clover, $14; No. 1 clover, $12@13.50; No. 2 clover, $11@11.50; No. 1 clover mixed, $13@14; No. 2 clover mixed, $11.50@12.50.

FLOUR—Receipts, 7460 sacks; shipments, 7630 sacks. Quote new soft winter flour, patents, $4.20@4.50; straight, $3.90@4.10; extra fancy, $3.70@3.85 foregoing in wood; in jute (Nebraska and Iowa), 15@25c lower per bbl than Kansas; Kansas, hard winter, patents, $3.50@3.75; straight, $3.25@3.40; first-clearing, $2.70@2.90; second-clearing, $2.25@2.50.

$290 Steinway Bargain.

The old, renowned Steinway, just think! New this piano would cost you at least $1000; we must sell it; if you can appreciate this big saving you will be wise to snap it up; full three strings and 7-octave keyboard. CAMPBELL BROS., 906-908 N. Grand av. (1)

$15 TO $45.

These prices may look unreasonable, but we mean business and want your patronage; there is no earthly reason why you should not be the proud possessor of a piano as good as your neighbor's, when such prices are quoted and on such easy terms, that it's better than renting; all 7-octave and in guaranteed condition. CAMPBELL BROS., 906-908 N. Grand av. (1)

RETURNED PIANOS.

Owing to a number of our patrons being obliged to move from St. Louis to other cities, we are forced to sacrifice our two as beautiful uprights as you ever set eyes on; just consider, a regular $500 mahogany for $275, on payments; one beauty at $168; cost new $300; our loss your gain; these pianos must be sold to keep our lease accounts intact; a snap for some one; visit our new location. CAMPBELL BROS., 906-908 N. Grand av. (1)

STEGER & SONS PIANOS

Contain all and more distinctive merits than all others put together; points that made the familiar "old times" famous are looked upon as old-fashioned by this progressive concern; you should examine their patent keyboard, a device that makes it impossible for any sticking or shrinking so often found in other pianos, tonal quality unsurpassed; action most responsive and elastic; these pianos are most liberally indorsed by the unbiased and unprejudiced musicians throughout the country; trial or inspection will convince you; also call and see them; sold on easy terms. CLOSING OUT SALE.

During this week, of the remaining unsold lots. Prices AS LOW AS $16 PER FOOT. Many choice lots still for sale.

CHOUTEAU PLACE

A high grade city subdivision with improved streets, walks, beautiful shade trees, deep lots, perfect sanitary conditions. Salesmen in office, corner Vandeventer and Labadie, every day, 9 till 6.

BARGAIN IN A CORNER TRACT

We can sell a choice tract in a rapidly developing district at a very low price, being the southeast corner of Euclid and Kennerly avenues. The tract of land fronts 162 feet on Euclid avenue and 410 feet on Kennerly avenue; both streets newly improved. A large old Colonial brick residence occupies a portion of the lot. By spending a few dollars on the house a man can have a lovely home with large grounds, and besides, can sell off several lots on Kennerly and also on Euclid. The house is substantial, and could be easily moved to one side of the lot, if preferred, and altered into a beautiful residence or into modern flats. However, we can sell the property at a low price for the ground alone, and throw in the big brick house. A subdivision can be made of the tract and sold to good advantage.

This property is owned by a corporation which does not care to hold real estate. They will sell the property at a low figure. Can arrange easy terms. See the property at once and call on us for price and particulars.

ENDS HER LIFE BY SMUGGLED POISON

Woman Patient Swallows Carbolic Acid at Centenary Hospital.

SCRATCHED LABEL OFF

Husband Informed of Her Death When She Calls for Visit.

Mrs. John F. Sugg of Odin, Ill., 28 years old, ended her life with carbolic acid at Centenary Hospital, 295 Lawton avenue, where she was being treated for a nervous trouble. Inquiry was instituted Monday by the hospital authorities to learn where she obtained the drug. She had not been out of her room since beginning treatment there.

Mrs. Sugg was taken to the hospital three weeks ago by her husband, a merchant. He called to visit her Sunday, and learned that she had committed suicide Saturday night.

A nurse gave Mrs. Sugg medicine at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, and left her. At 9 o'clock screams were heard from her room and nurses rushed in to find her dying. She had often expressed belief that the nervous malady from which she suffered was incurable.

The label had been scratched from the acid bottle. The police, who were not notified until Sunday, could not learn where or how Mrs. Sugg obtained the poison.

An inquest was held Monday. Mr. Sugg has taken the body to Odin.

8—The "General's" Dustless Method of House Cleaning Saves the Nervous Worry Usually Incident to House Cleaning.

¶It protects the furniture and carpets from unnecessary wear.

¶ A carpet is rarely clean after it is beaten. The dust settles back upon it and the last lick it receives always brings some dust. Compressed air takes out all the dirt and makes the carpet look like new. We give a complete house-cleaning service.

¶ We also have a large well-organized force of men for hand-cleaning, such as washing windows, woodwork, scrubbing floors, cleaning paint and wall paper by latest non-injurious methods., etc.

We Clean Empty Houses and Frescoing.

SCIENTIST IS SLAIN IN DUEL WITH TEACHER

Archeologist Duff Shot to Death, New Mexico Educator Wounded.

BATTLE IN THE STREET

Both Had Threatened to Shoot on Sight—Claim Woman in Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DEMING, N. M., April 30.—In a pistol duel between Prof. W. H. Dickey, superintendent of the Deming public schools, and Prof. V. Francis Duff, superintendent of the Luna County schools and one of the most prominent educators in New Mexico, which took place yesterday in front of the Postoffice here, Duff was killed, while Dickey is in the hospital with a bullet in his side.

Duff, besides being a prominent educator, also had a national reputation as an archeologist. He came to this place because of ill health. He was hailed at once as a valued acquisition by the community and put in charge of the Luna County schools. He was a deep student and was the last person one would associate with a typical frontier pistol duel.

For several weeks Duff had threatened to shoot Prof. Dickey on sight. The men met frequently, but no pistol shots were exchanged. The threats of the professor to shoot his fellow pedagogue were regarded as a joke, and his friends twitted him on his failure to shoot.

Claim Woman Involved.

It is said here that a woman came between the two men, but friends of Prof. Duff insist that there was an entirely different cause for the shooting.

Prof. Dickey drove about town for several hours today and passed Duff several times. The two men glared at each other, but passed no remarks. Duff went to the Postoffice and asked for his mail. A letter was handed to him and he had just finished reading the missive when Dickey passed. Duff ran into the street, and, drawing a pistol, ordered Dickey to stop. Dickey got out of his carriage and also drew a pistol.

Friends of the two men called on them to return the weapons to their pockets, but both men opened fire about the same time. When the smoke cleared away both combatants were lying on the sidewalk, Prof. Duff with a bullet in his head and Dickey with a bullet in his side. Duff died about five minutes after the shooting and Dickey was taken to the hospital, where it was said that he would recover.

The shooting has caused the greatest excitement here. If the duel had been fought between two miners or cowboys, it would not have attracted more than passing attention; but the prominence of the combatants has aroused the greatest curiosity as to the cause.

RENAISSANCE OF POCKET PICKING

Fewer Policemen at Baseball Park, Man in Grandstand Is Robbed.

Dr. T. B. Mansfield of 5114 Page boulevard, went to the ball game Sunday. He wore a gold watch and a handsome fob in his vest. When he returned to his home he had no watch and no fob.

He may have lost it, but he does not regard this as probable and he has reported to the police that a pickpocket "frisked" him. He wants the watch and charm, both of which were keepsakes.

Chief of Detectives Desmond said Monday that this is the first report of a theft at a ball game in St. Louis during eight years. He attributes it to the fact that Acting Chief of Police Gillaspy has refused this year to send the large number of policemen that have formerly attended ball games to the grounds. Only two or three men are sent to look out for the twelve or fifteen thousand Sunday patrons of the game, and the thieves are getting busy.

Mrs. Guerin and Family Safe.

Mrs. F. W. Guerin, widow of the St. Louis photographer, who has spent the past few years in San Francisco, escaped without injury in the earthquake and fire, according to telegrams received by her friends here. With her five sons she has gone to Alameda, where she is now. She lost her home and all her belongings in the fire.

W. M. Chase Decorated.

William M. Chase, the painter, formerly of St. Louis, has, according to press dispatches, been decorated by the Prince Regent of Bavaria with the order of St. Michael. The honor is in recognition of his fame as an artist. Mr. Chase began his career as a painter in St. Louis and moved to New York about ten years ago.
